WILSON WILL SEND TROOPS TO RESTORE ORDER IN COLORADO

After Going Over Strike Situation Two Hours With Cabinet, President Decides to Issue Proclamation

COAL FIELD SITUATION VIRTUALLY CIVIL WAR

Strikers and Mine Guards Fight All Monday Night, Strike Leaders Powerless, Governor Asks Aid

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, April 28.—President Wilson today decided to restore order in troops to Colorado to restore order in the coal strike district where virtual civil war exists.

The decision was reached after the president had gone over the Colorado situation with his cabinet during the greater part of a two-hour session, and a proclamation will be issued later today ordering federal soldiers to the scene of the industrial conflict.

The number of troops will be decided upon in a conference between the president and Secretary of War Garrison at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

At 2:30 o'clock Secretary Garrison left the White House to go to the war department, where he will prepare the order for troops to go to the Colorado mine district. A proclamation is being prepared by the president for announcement later.

Strikers and Guards Battled All Night

DENVER, Col., April 28.—Conditions in the Colorado coal fields have become more serious than at any time since the inception of the strike last September. Violence has spread from the southern fields to those of the extreme north, continuing with vigor in the southern fields with the use of heavy guns. Strikers and guards at the Walsen mine, near Walsenburg, according to a report from Senator Farr, and being inaugurated in the northern field by simultaneous attacks on the mines of Louisville, Lafayette and Marshall, with an unknown casualty list.

The conflicts between strikers and mine guards at Walsen and at the Hecla mine at Louisville continued throughout the night. The arrival of the militia from Ludlow at the Walsen mine apparently had no effect upon the many snipers who kept up their fire at the mine from long range even after the troops reinforced the defenders.

FRESH OUTBREAKS.

Fresh outbreaks in the Trinidad district were reported from the Forbes mine camp early today with no casualties. The main body of state troops is located at Ludlow, only a short distance from the Forbes camp, but no orders went forth for troops to move into strikers there.

In the meanwhile in Denver, state officials waited word from Washington that President Wilson had determined to send federal troops into the state.

They asked for the appointment of a committee of women to be sent to Ludlow and search the tent strikers tent colony site, where they claimed there were more bodies. They told the governor that 100 children of strikers' families are yet unaccounted for, in spite of the fact that other investigating parties had announced no more bodies could be found.

Strike leaders claimed today that the situation throughout the state had grown beyond their control and cited the fighting in the northern fields last night as proof of their claims. They asserted that the mine guards there started the trouble because of an agreement which was made, they said, in Denver last night between the mine operators and the sheriff of Boulder county to turn over all machine guns in the northern field to him. Union leaders declared the guards precipitated the fighting in order to evade surrender of the guns.

No estimate of fatalities on the striking side in any of the clashes could be had from union headquarters here today. The fighting at both Walsen and Louisville was heavy and to participants it seemed that there must have been losses to the strikers. At Lafayette two machine guns were turned upon the strikers and poured a rain of bullets in their direction. The same

"TROVATORE" HEARD BY LARGE AUDIENCE AT TODAY'S MATINEE

Verdi's Oldest and Most Popular Opera, Presented Here Third Time, Has Lost None of Its Drawing Power

GADSKI, OBER, MARTIN AND AMATO IN CAST

Sunshine Brings Out Summer Toilettes, and Boxes and Arena Are Seas of Spring-Like Color

Verdi's perennial collection of vocal gems, "Il Trovatore," drew a large audience to the auditorium Tuesday afternoon, an audience for the most part familiar with every air from the bard's opening narrative to the last wail of the gypsy. An afternoon of sunshine had brought out summer toilettes and boxes and arena were seas of springlike color.

"Trovatore" has twice been sung by the Metropolitan company here, but never with such a cast as now. With Mme. Gadski as Leonora, Martin as Manrico, Pasquale Amato as the Count, and the new contralto, Margaret Ober as Azucena, the performance was a notable one.

Mr. Martin, who has sung the tenor role at every performance of the Verdi favorite in Atlanta, was as pleasing as ever in the succession of airs given Manrico, and his stirring passages with the count and his love scenes with Leonora were splendidly sung. Mme. Gadski's powerful soprano found full sway in the several arias allotted to Leonora, and her duet with Mr. Martin, the famous "Miserer" scene, was superbly sung.

There are few roles which bring out the beauty of a baritone voice more fully than that of the count, and Amato shone in the part as he has in every role given him in his Atlanta visits.

Mme. Ober, heard for the first time in Atlanta, proved a veritable sensation as the gypsy, and operagoers are eagerly awaiting her appearance in "Der Rosenkavalier" Wednesday night.

AWOKE TO FIND GUN AND CASH TAKEN FROM BED

S. J. Duffy Complains to Police and Is Held for Carrying Weapon

Appearing in police court Monday as a prosecuting attorney in the case of S. J. Duffy, proprietor of a saloon at 48 Decatur street, who lives at 16 Fitzgerald street, was surprised and chagrined to find himself bound over to the city court by Recorder Broyles for carrying a pistol without a license.

According to Duffy's statement, he locked up his store Friday night, taking with him a revolver and $147 in cash. He went to sleep at his home on Fitzgerald street, with the cash and the gun under his pillow. He awoke. Gun and cash were gone. He walked out in the yard, and there was $20 in silver in a little bag, just as he had tied it up the night before. He went to the home of Robert Edmondson, a laborer, across the street at No. 15, and Edmondson met him with his revolver, saying, "Thanks for lending it to me."

This was too much for Duffy, who had Edmondson arrested, charged with larceny of the money and the revolver.

Without trying to solve the baffling mystery of how the money and gun were taken from under the pillow, and who did the taking, Recorder Broyles bound Edmondson over under bond under $100 bond for having a pistol without a license. The larceny charged against Edmondson was dismissed by the recorder.

BAR RAGSDALE-BARBER EVIDENCE FOR NEW TRIAL

Defense Strikes Amendment, Dorsey Promises Sensation, Frank Makes Statement

Judge Ben H. Hill has signed an order allowing the defense of Leo M. Frank to strike from his extraordinary motion for a new trial the amendments referring to the affidavits of Rev. C. B. Ragsdale and R. L. Barber that they heard Jim Conley confess to the Mary Phagan murder.

Mr. Ragsdale has made an affidavit for Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey in which he repudiates the affidavit made to the defense of Frank and used in an amendment to the extraordinary motion.

The solicitor, however, declares that he will insist on "showing up the entire transaction."

Another development of Tuesday in the case was the issuance of a signed statement by Frank in which he again commented upon Chief Lanford's statement that the state does not charge perversion to him. Frank's statement is given in full below.

Judge Hill in allowing the motion to strike the Ragsdale-Barber amendment, ordered that the original affidavits of the two men be made a part of the court record in the case. This action was presumably taken by the court in order that the affidavits may form the basis of perjury affidavits.

It is known that when the hearing of the extraordinary motion in the Frank case, which will be resumed on Friday, is completed, the grand jury will take up a thorough investigation of the whole case, probing all charges and counter charges of perjury and subornation of perjury.

WITNESSES UNDER FIRE.

The various witnesses who made affidavits, which they later repudiated, will come under fire, and all of the charges of subornation of perjury will be vigorously investigated, it is said.

It is understood that the fact that the defense had withdrawn the Ragsdale-Barber amendment will not prevent the solicitor general's introducing the repudiating affidavit.

The solicitor, however, will not be quoted as to any method of procedure, but answers all questions relative to the matter by saying simply: "We will insist most vigorously on showing up the whole transaction."

Mr. Ragsdale was not at his home in Kirkwood during the day. His son, who resides with him, did not know that his father had made an affidavit for the solicitor until seen by a Journal

PRESIDENT WILSON CHEERED BY LETTER OF L. W. SUMMERLIN

Writes Note of Appreciation to Georgian Who Lost Brother at Vera Cruz, for His Loyalty and Patriotism

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, April 28.—President Wilson was cheered today by a letter written by L. W. Summerlin, of Willacoochee, Ga., brother of one of the marines killed at Vera Cruz. Mr. Summerlin had been asked by a newspaper for an interview on the uselessness of mediation, in view of the lives already sacrificed.

"My brother Randolph was killed at Vera Cruz in defense of our country's honor," wrote Mr. Summerlin. "I believe President Wilson is right, and favor his policy, and Randolph has four brothers and a father who stand ready to make the same sacrifice. If we could not be loyal to our country and our president, we would move out."

The president wrote to Mr. Summerlin as follows:

"My Dear Mr. Summerlin: My attention has just been called to your correspondence with regard to the death of your brother at Vera Cruz. It has moved me very much. It rings so true and has such a genuine feling of patriotism in it, and the deep feeling which makes citizenship in this country so noble a thing.

"No one was more distressed than I at the loss of life at Vera Cruz, and I sympathize with you and your father and brother most deeply. It is the more gratifying to find the noble spirit in which you take the loss, because I know what it must have cost you to lose a gallant brother like yours."

Marines Entertain Mexican Captives, Then Release Them

VERA CRUZ, April 28.—Six federal soldiers who wandered too close to the American lines were captured late yesterday by marines. There is no desire among the Americans to attack or in any way assume the offensive against the Mexicans, so when the marines found themselves in possession of a squad of Huerta's soldiers they did their best to entertain them. They gossiped

JUDGE COVINGTON MAY BE AKERMAN'S SUCCESSOR

General Belief Is That He Will Be Nominated in Next Few Weeks

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The department of justice probably will abandon its purpose to defer the appointment of a United States attorney for the southern district of Georgia until the naval stores case has been heard again. It is regarded as probable that President Wilson will, within the next few weeks, send to the senate the nomination of a district attorney to succeed Alex Akerman, of Macon, whose resignation has remained unaccepted in the hands of the attorney general for several months.

In connection with the reported purpose of the president to make a nomination, W. A. Covington, of Moultrie, Colquitt county, looms up as a dar khorse. It is understood that his name is being considered both at the department of justice and at the White House, and it would occasion no surprise if he were named for the office.

COMMITTEE MAY MEET SOON TO CHANGE RULES

Convention Nomination Would Be Terrible Blow to Unit Plan, Says Chairman

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 28.—State Chairman William J. Harris explained to The Journal this morning that owing to his prospective candidacy for governor he has no recommendation to make with reference to changes in the rules for the state primary adopted recently by the state committee.

"I believe," he said, "the rules should be changed, but I feel a delicacy in making any suggestions. I may be a candidate for governor. It is my idea that the people and not the convention should name the nominees for governor and other officers. It is possible under the present rules that this may be defeated and, in my judgment, a convention nomination for any office would prove a terrible blow to the county unit plan."

Chairman Harris said he was sending to each member a letter suggesting another meeting of the committee to amend and popularize the rules to govern the primary.

"I will be guided solely by the wishes of a majority of the committee," he said. "If they agree that committee should be called to change the rules, I will issue the call and be controlled

THREE REPORTS ARE DRAWN BY SCHOOL BOOKS COMMISSION

Majority of Board Authorized by Legislature Declares Opposition to Publication of Any Texts by the State

Three reports were submitted Tuesday at the final meeting of the commission created by the legislature last year to investigate the publication of school books. One was signed by Representative C. R. McCrory, of Schley county, author of the resolution under which the commission was named. Another was signed by M. L. Brittain, state superintendent of schools, and the third was signed by Representative A. C. Shrupshire, of Chatham county; Dr. G. R. Glenn, of Dahlonega; Senator John T. Peyton, of Mount Airy, and Dr. T. J. Woofter, of Athens.

Senator A. H. Foster, of Covington, who has been ill for some time, and Representative W. J. Nunnally, of Rome, who was a candidate in a primary being held Tuesday, were not present.

The commission's debate, hot at times lasted from 9:30 o'clock until 12:30 o'clock. At the end of that time the majority had submitted a report against the publication of any school books by the state. Superintendent Brittain had submitted one favoring the test of the publication plan, and Representative McCrory had submitted one favoring the outright adoption of the plan.

WOULD ABOLISH BOARD.

Mr. McCrory stated privately after the commission's adjournment that a bill will be introduced at the coming session of the legislature to abolish the state board of education as it stands and in its stead create a board with one member to be elected by the people in each congressional district of the state.

At one juncture during their rather feverish session the investigators were on the verge of agreeing. In fact, three voted to adopt the report which finally became Mr. Brittain's alone, and two voted against it. But one of the three favoring it said he had voted under misapprehension that the majority favored that report for the sake of peace. He moved to reconsider. The motion carried, and the wrangle was on again merrily.

Before adjournment the commissioners adopted a resolution commending Superintendent Brittain, the chairman, for his impartiality and ability in di-

FUNSTON AND FIFTH BRIGADE ARRIVE IN VERA CRUZ HARBOR

General Will Assume Command of the Mexican City Immediately in Compliance With War Dept. Instructions

LANDS FOR CONFERENCE WITH ADMIRAL FLETCHER

Force Under His Command Is Composed of Fourth, Seventh, Nineteenth and Twenty-Eighth Regiments

VERA CRUZ, April 28.—The transports bringing the Fifth army brigade, comprising the Fourth, Seventh, Nineteenth and Twenty-eighth infantry regiments, under Brigadier General Frederick Funston, were made fast at the docks shortly before 10 o'clock this morning.

Brigadier General Funston, accompanied by Captain Harry McL. Huse, chief of staff of Rear Admiral Fletcher, immediately came ashore to confer with Rear Admiral Fletcher before calling on Rear Admiral Badger, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic [illegible]

The troops were brought by the transports Meade, Sumner, Kilpatrick and McClellan and the war department order for General Funston to assume command of the city is expected to be carried out within a few hours.

Americans in Vera Cruz early today eagerly awaited General Funston and his troops.

No announcement as to when the soldiers will be sent ashore has been made at headquarters, and much gossip regarding their disposition was indulged in about the cafe tables on the central plaza where the refugees congregate.

EXPECTED QUICK LANDING.

Many believed the troops would be rushed ashore, basing their contention mainly on orders issued to the disastrous ship battalions to be ready to embark on short notice. Others contended General Funston and his staff would take a day or two to familiarize themselves with the situation before disembarking their men. Everybody agreed, however, that it was improbable the marines would be withdrawn until the army expeditionary force is complete.

Owing to the fact that the marines are already seasoned it is believed they will be entrusted with picket and guard duty until needed for other possible landings or until General Funston's force has its city patrols organized and is ready to take its place in the trenches or on lookout posts.

It is understood there will be no effort to extend the territory now held here until further orders to that effect come from Washington.

RESULT OF NEGOTIATIONS.

This attitude, it is supposed, is the natural result of the negotiations regarding mediation. little information of which is reaching here, and because of the desire to continue efforts to bring Americans in Mexico City and elsewhere to the coast.

It is probable that several naval officers now administering municipal affairs will not be disturbed when the army staff takes hold. Among these is Commander Hickey, of the Prairie, captain of the port, who is now directing affairs inside the breakwater.

Schools Closed to Let Officers Join Regiments

WASHINGTON, April 27.—To secure the services immediately of all available army officers, in addition to the infantry school at Fort Leavenworth the cavalry school at Fort Riley, and the field artillery school at Fort Sill have temporarily been closed by the war department and the officers under instruction at those schools directed to join their commands immediately Only the engineer school at Washington barracks, the coast artillery school at Fort Monroe and the aviation school at San Diego, Cal., remain open.

TO AVE EYES

Is the Object of This Free Prescription—Try It if Your Eyes Give You Trouble

Thousands of people suffer from eye troubles because they do not know what to do. They know some good home remedy for every other minor ailment, but none for their eye troubles. They neglect their eyes, because the trouble is not sufficient to drive them to an eye specialist, who would, any way, charge them a heavy fee. As a last resort they go to an optician or to the five and ten-cent store, and oftentimes get glasses that they do not need, or which, after being used two or three months, do their eyes more injury than good. Here is a simple prescription that every one should use:

5 grains Optona. (1 Tablet)
2 ounces Water.

Use three or four times a day to bathe the eyes. This prescription keeps the eyes clean and quickly overcomes inflammation and irritation. Weak, watery, work-strained eyes, granular lids and other similiar troubles are greatly benefited and oftentimes cured by its use. Many who wear glasses have discarded them after using it for a few weeks. It is good for the eyes, and will not injure the most sensitive eyes of an infant or the aged. Any druggist can fill this prescription promptly. Try it, and know for once what real eye comfort is. (Advt.)

TANGO

ROOTS OUT CORNS PAINLESSLY

Don't Pick and Gouge and Torture Your Toes—Use TANGO.

TANGO for Corns is the most marvelous remedy of the age. No wonder everybody is enthusiastic about it. One touch of TANGO on a corn ends your suffering. Applied in a second and it's done. No plaster or salve to fuss with; nothing to stick to the hose and be jerked from the sore toe with excruciating agony; no swelling and tenderness. Never use a point or blade, because the risk is too great. A slip of the instrument and a drop of blood have caused many cases of blood poison.

TANGO is the one safe remedy that roots out the core of the corn, painlessly. It softens this kernel and brings it out. The root, core and the corn is gone forever. No pain, no fuss, no sore, bandaged toes.

TANGO is the safest and surest remedy for corns and bunions; the one GUARANTEED remedy. Any druggist will return your money if TANGO fails to root out the CORE of the corn painlessly. 25c at All Druggists. Made and guaranteed by Jacobs' Pharmacy, Atlanta.—(Advt.)

AMERICAN PRISONERS PROMISED FREEDOM BY FEDERAL OFFICER

General Maas Yields to Request Made by Consul Canada and Agrees to Let Them Go Today

VERA CRUZ, April 28.—Sleeping on the stone flagging of the jail patio with insufficient food no sanitation and threatened every night with assassination by drunken jailers is the experience of the Americans and other foreigners, including women and children confined at Cordoba.

Their release today has been promised by General Maas in reply to a request from American Consul Canada through a messenger who returned to Vera Cruz today.

W. B. Wofford, of Atlanta, Ga., who was among the prisoners captured near Vera Cruz and taken to Cordoba last week is believed to be among the number to be released today. There has been no confirmation of the report that he has been executed.

W. H. Mechling, of the geological survey of Canada, who has been for some time in Mexico in behalf of the universities of Harvard, Pennsylvania and Columbia, spent two days in Cordoba. He was detained but not put in jail and finally was permitted to proceed here as an Englishman, though he is in reality an American.

Mechling went to the jail in Cordoba Sunday afternoon and talked to the prisoners, among whom are several he is acquainted with. They begged him to communicate their plight to Consul Canada and Rear Admiral Fletcher in an endeavor to secure their release.

The prisoners are herded like cattle and are jeered almost constantly either by the keepers or the Mexican inmates of the jail. They are permitted to have food and drink only when the whim suits the jailers, and are kept in a state of terror by frequent threats of death.

Among the prisoners is a young American woman with a four-months-old infant. There are several other women and children, and the total number of all nationalities, according to Mechling, is eighty-five.

One of the imprisoned men is Superintendent Enfedy, of The Vista Hermosa sugar plantation, of Vera Cruz state, who entertained John Lind, President Wilson's representative, a few months ago. Mechling says there are eighty-seven persons, chiefly Americans, held at Tuxtepec, state of Vera Cruz, from surrounding plantations, and that Consular Agent Wite is in jail at El Hule, near Tuxtepec.

Mechling left Tuxtepec last Wednesday with a pass, giving an assumed name and his nationality as British. An excited crowd of Mexicans surrounded the train and it was with difficulty that he persuaded them to allow him to board. At El Burro another mob searched the train and robbed him of all but two bills which he had hidden in his shoe. At Tierra Blanca fourteen whites and thirty-two negroes were brought aboard the train.

A howling mob met the train at Cordoba and shouted insults at the Americans. The crowd surrounded the jail long after the doors had closed on the prisoners.

E. B. Weems, a sugar plantation owner who was previously held at Cordoba, escaped by descending the river in a launch to Alvarado. He arrived safely in Vera Cruz and sailed for the United States yesterday on the steamer Mexico.

U. S. ADMIRAL SEIZES BRITISH-OWNED PROPERTY

Fletcher Wanted Piers; Price Didn't Suit; He Needed 'Em, So He Took 'Em

VERA CRUZ, April 28.—Rear Admiral Fletcher last evening seized the piers, yards and buildings of the Terminal company, a British-owned concern, control over which he regarded as necessary to facilitate the resumption of the normal business activity of the city. The admiral had been endeavoring to rent the property. The management quoted a figure naval authorities considered exorbitant and Admiral Fletcher ended the controversy by taking advantage of his powers under martial law and assuming possession of the property.

Prior to the seizure a high official of the company had a British flag raised over the water station far out in the yards. It availed him nothing, however. Mr. Morcom, manager of the Mexican railway and president of the Terminal company, called on Rear Admiral Craddock, of the British cruiser Essex, and related the circumstances. The admiral advised Mr. Morcom to present his claims to the British foreign office.

The Terminal company is a British concern, most of the stock of which is held by the railroads, two of which the Oceanic and the Mexico are British owned.

Original Drawings of Local Cartoonists Are On Display in Library

A display of the work of local cartoonists was opened to the public at Carnegie library, Tuesday, by Miss Katherine Wootten, the librarian. In it appear original drawings by Brewerton, The Journal's staff cartoonist; by Gregg, the Constitution's artist; by Henderson, recently deceased; by Carter, of the Georgian and American; and by other artists of local and national repute. The display is one of the most interesting and complete that the library yet has offered to the public on any subject. It was planned by Miss Wootten and the cordial co-operation of the artists was extended to her. It is on the ground floor of the library.

The exhibit by Brewerton is made doubly interesting by the inclusion of original cartoons from the pens of Goldberg, McCutcheon, Fisher, Darling, Webster, "Ole May" and others. Gregg exhibits some drawings by McCay, the artist of superb and infinite detail.

Among the cartoon subjects are men of big affairs—President Wilson, former President Roosevelt, former President Taft, John Hay, and others of national repute. The grand opera stars also are liberally represented. Gregg's cartoon of Roosevelt's platform is displayed in original, accompanied by a letter of approval from the colonel. Another original is Gregg's cartoon of John Hay, accompanied by Mr. Hay's letter of appreciation. In Brewerton's collection is an interesting series revealing the evolution of the cartoon.

SPRING SICKNESS COMES TO EVERYONE

Spring sickness comes in some degree to every man, woman and child in our climate. It is that run-down condition of the system that results from impure impoverished devitalized blood. It is marked by loss of appetite and that tired feeling, and in many cases by some form of eruption.

The best way to treat spring sickness is to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. Ask your druggist for this all-the-year-round medicine. It purifies, enriches and revitalizes the blood.—(Advt.)

STARS SHINE IN MASSENET'S MANON

BRILLIANT OPENING PROMISES GREATEST SEASON ON RECORD

Six Thousand Persons Crowd Auditorium to Hear Caruso's Glorious Tenor and Matchless Notes of Farrar.

By Dudley Glass

SIX THOUSAND opera lovers today are describing to less fortunate friends the opening night of Atlanta's fifth grand opera season and trying vainly to give the absentees some idea of how Caruso and Farrar sang those love passages in Massenet's "Manon." Atlanta woke this morning from the first night of her annual musical debauch, tired and happy and ready to begin again this afternoon. If the week fulfills the promise given by its auspicious opening such an opera season will be presented as Dixie has never known before.

Perhaps never was a more thoroughly opera audience than that which filled almost every seat in the vast auditorium and hung on every note from the twin stars who appeared for the first time together. To most of the audience "Manon" was new, but its music proved so simply sweet, so brimming with love and pathos that one needed neither technical training nor close study of libretto to understand and enjoy. "Manon" is long a favorite work among the French, promises to take its place among Atlanta favorites on the Atlanta repertoire of the Metropolitan company.

CARUSO'S TENOR GLORIOUS AS EVER.

Never was Caruso's glorious tenor heard to greater advantage than in the tender courtship of des Grieux. Atlanta has heard it fill the auditorium with its stirring notes of "Aida," heard its heart-breaking sobs in "Pagliacci." The city has become familiar with its tremendous volume, its splendid power. But never before has Caruso sang with such soft tenderness, such delicacy of shading, such perfect command of each fine phrase as in his scenes with "Manon." From the first liquid notes of his entrance, "If I But Knew Your Name," blending quickly with Miss Farrar's reply, "I Am Called Manon," through the beautiful dream song and the great renunciation in the monastery scene, he was as perfect as only Caruso can be.

Geraldine Farrar, beautiful as ever, her voice the silver bell which all Atlanta loves, proved not only her artistry but her American pluck. She had sung splendidly through the first and second acts, had held her admirers breathless in her girlish aria, "Dream Days No More," had burst into birdlike carols in the joyous duet with Caruso, "To Paris We'll Flee," and touched all hearts with the pathos of Manon's farewell to the little home. Then she approached the monastery scene, a duet as emotional, as great in its dramatic demands, as even the scenes she has made famous in "Tosca." She had sung the prayer scene with the convent chorus behind the scenes chanting a sable anthem to the accompaniment of the great auditorium organ, and had reached the appeal to her lover to resume his priestly robes and return to her arms.

FARRAR OVERCOME IN GREAT SCENE.

Here in the great scene of the opera, did Farrar throw herself into it with the fervor of a Bernhardt. Des Grieux was fighting the battle between heart and soul, and Manon was at his feet, pleading, bewitching, clasping her lover's hands and pouring out her whole being in the agony of pleading. At last des Grieux's love triumphed over his priestly vows and he tore at his black robes, while Manon burst into the joyous note, "I Love Thee."

There was a tremendous burst of applause as the curtains fell, then between the velvet hangings those at the left of the house saw Miss Farrar reel and fall, and a half-dozen singers leap to save her. She was fainting, and for a moment the audience sat in dread lest the favorite could not complete her role. But in a short while the crimson curtains parted again and Caruso stepped out, supporting Miss Farrar tenderly and patting her hand in encouragement. She took three curtain calls then, though each time she leaned heavily upon a fellow-singer.

In the next act she appeared again, as lovely as ever and with spirit apparently undaunted. Miss Farrar has been far from well this year and has been guarding her strength carefully. It was because of this that her physicians forbade her attempting the role of Carmen this season, and the proposed revival of the noted opera was abandoned by the company.

LOVERS OVERSHADOW ALL OTHER ROLES.

There are many fine roles in "Manon" but the two lovers overshadow them to a greater degree than in most operas. Dinh Gilly, as Lescaut, the swaggering guardsman cousin of Manon, was given but two or three opportunities for individual work, but his ringing baritone did full justice to these. Leon Rothier, the basso who sang and acted so splendidly in "The Tales of Hoffman," was the elder des Grieux, and was superb in his brief monastery scene and in the magnificent trio in the gambling house. De Segurola's fine bass was as perfect as always in the role of deBretigny, and Albert Reiss, the tenor to whom fall so many fine comedy parts, was a thoroughly artistic Guillot. Lenora Sparkes and Rosina van Dyck as the two actresses, were bewitching, and in their few opportunities sang delightfully.

There are so many appealing duets, trios and concerted numbers in "Manon" that to recount them would be tedious. The work of the chorus in the first act and again in the gambling scene was a tribute to their director. As for the orchestra, Toscanini conducted and praise would be superfluous.

ORCHESTRAL SCORE ESPECIALLY BEAUTIFUL.

The orchestral score of "Manon" is particularly beautiful in many scenes and especially so in the sombre final act, where the recurrent death motif is singularly like that in Puccini's "Boheme." Indeed the roles of Manon and Mimi are very similar and their musical treatment in several scenes are much alike.

The settings were worthy of a "first night" work. The scene at the old inn, the lonely road to Havre at sunset and more than all the magnificent gambling house setting were as elaborate as only the Metropolitan provides.

The first scene of the third act of the original score, the fete day setting, was omitted. It caused the loss of some bright chorus numbers, a bit of comedy, and especially the aria "List to the Voice of Youth," by Manon, one of the most lovely bits in the work. But the opera, which began shortly after 8 o'clock, continued until nearly midnight, and it would have been impracticable to have extended its length.

OPERA AUDIENCE NEVER MORE BRILLIANT.

There have been but few larger audiences in the armory and perhaps never one more brilliant. The boxes, as usual, were a circle of beautiful women, jewels and orchids. The fashions of the season seem to lend themselves to ornate display, and the opera glasses were as busy between the acts as when Manon was the center of all eyes.

Atlanta seems to have learned better to appreciate opera for opera's sake than formerly, for there was far less conversation while the curtain was up, and not so frequently was a fine bit of the orchestral score drowned by illtimed if enthusiastic, applause at the end of some splendid bit of singing.

Most of the audience arrived early, too. Half an hour before curtain time automobiles were parked from the auditorium nearly to Five Points, nd but a few hundred folk were shut out by the inflexible rules when the curtain rose on the first act.

OPERA IS HERE, BUT DON'T FORGET HOSPITAL BONDS

Was there can be no question that Atlanta takes the lead in grand opera. Now, if you would kindly divert your attention—

This, however, is not grand opera. This is the Grady hospital. The campaign for a greater Grady enters today upon its last week. Next Tuesday, the bond issue will go to the voters. The workers at bond headquarters, in the chamber of commerce building, hope in the meantime, to divert the attention of Atlanta to some extent from the auditorium to the fact that the city needs a new hospital. The competition is heavy, but the workers have a good cause.

Enthusiasm was strong at headquarters today over a feature of the situation which has been becoming more and more apparent every day. This is the unanimity of opinion among nearly all the men in the city who come under the general description of the publicity important. In most campaigns, it will be found that even when the situation is encouraging, the important business and professional element is divided. This, of course, does not apply to campaigns like that for the regional bank, in which the city gets everything for nothing, but campaigns where the city's money—or, as in the present case, the city's credit—has to be used.

The campaign for a greater Grady seems to be an exception to this rule. A unanimity of opinion among the city's business and professional men is becoming more evident every day. Interviews with such men result almost invariably in an enthusiastic indorsement of the issue.

Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey is an example. Mr. Dorsey has been a pretty busy man in the last few weeks, but he has had time to notice that a campaign for a greater Grady is in progress. At one time, Mr. Dorsey was a trustee of the hospital, so he didn't need to read up on the matter before giving his indorsement to the efforts for its enlargement.

"When I was trustee of the hospital," said Mr. Dorsey today, "I was constantly reminded of its inadequacy to the demands made upon it. I believed then, and I believe now, that Grady hospital should be enlarged and improved. There is nothing modern about it with the exception of the one new building erected in 1910. It is entirely inefficient for Atlanta's present needs, and for the needs of the future, it will be little better than nothing.

"Atlanta needs a greater Grady, and she should have it. It is entirely out of keeping with the city's spirit of progress and civic pride to attempt to get along with a makeshift like that which holds the place of a city hospital today."

Reuben Arnold is another man whose time has been fairly occupied of late with other matters. Mr. Arnold is like many others, though—the inadequacy of Grady has been known to him for a long time, and he considers its immediate enlargement and improvement a necessity.

"A hospital," said Mr. Arnold, "is one of the most important public institutions the city possesses. It is the guardian of that invaluable municipal property—the public health. For a city to try to get along with an inadequate hospital, is to put public health in constant danger.

"Grady hospital has been inadequate to Atlanta's needs for a long time. The population of this city is growing every day, and it is absolutely certain that Grady will be more inadequate tomorrow than it is this afternoon. As I understand it, they are turning people away from the hospital now. Improvements and enlargement must be made soon, and the sooner they are made the better. I personally, am going to cast my vote for the bonds."

The ward organization of the general campaign committee, of which Ivan Allen is the chairman, is now perfected. A special meeting of the committee from the Ninth ward is called for 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in Grady bond headquarters.

PRIZES FOR SHRINERS' ELECTRICAL DISPLAYS

Committee Appointed by Yaarab Temple to Choose Winners

The committee which is to award the prizes offered by Yaarab temple for the best electrical display in Atlanta's downtown streets during Shrine week was appointed Tuesday by Potentate Forest Adair as follows: T. R. Palmer, chairman, Hal Hentz and Walter E. Browne.

Announcement of the prize offer was made some time ago by Yaarab temple. A total of $500 will be distributed—$250 for the best display, $150 for the next best, and $100 for the third. Occupants and owners of property in the retail districts will compete for them.

Practically all of the big contracts for electrical and other decoration in the Shriners' honor have been signed. Most of the material is here, and some of the work has been started.

"The city is going to be better decorated than ever before," said one of the contractors Tuesday. "I have been investigating, and I find that the whole city has taken hold of this proposition with wonderful generosity. Everybody is going to decorate, and some of the jobs will be very expensive. Few people realize how magnificent the general effect will be."

Why It Suits Particular People.

Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is prompt and effective for children, croup, hoarseness, bronchial cough and for any condition where the membranes of the throat and bronchial tubes are inflamed and raw. Thomas Verron, Hancock, Mich., writes: "Foley's Honey and Tar has always proven effective, quickly stopping the cough with no bad after effect." It contains no opiates, and is a pure reliable medicine. That's why it suits particular people.

Mr. Gibson predicts an unusually successful summer for the Studebaker. The general air of optimism one encounters at their rooms leads one to believe that he and his coworkers have something up their sleeves that will bring a surprise or two to auto row.

SORORITY WOMEN TO WORK FOR GRADY

SOUTHERN TEXTILE DAY OBSERVED IN BOSTON

(By Associated Press.)

BOSTON, April 28.—In honor of more than 100 manufacturers from the southern states who have come here to attend the events of textile week, this was known as Southern Textile day.

The principal meeting of the week, the annual convention of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, will open tomorrow.

PAN-HELLENIC MEMBERS.

At the meeting of sorority and coll ege women which was held Monday mor ning at the University club at the call of the Atlanta Pan-Hellenic association many young women enthusiastically pledged their support to the Grady hospital bond issue. The members will at once begin an active and comprehensive campaign to aid in securing the much needed bond issue. The group includes Mrs. Omar E. Elder, Miss Fannie Hinton, Miss Vee Strickland, Miss Edith Watts, Miss Mollie Ray, Mrs. Arch Elkin, Miss Ollie Barmore, Mrs. Wright, Miss Jennings and others. The girl in the circle is Miss Bessie Kempton, head of the Pan-Hellenic association.

WHAT ABOUT THOSE BONDS FOR GRADY?

Today it's grand opera, tomorrow something else. The Shriners are coming. Atlanta is busy constantly with one event or another.

But Grady hospital stays always with us.

It's ours, for service night and day, week after week, month after month, from year's end to year's end.

We couldn't do without it—and we can't do with it much longer. We've been ignoring it too long. The city has been growing, but Grady hasn't grown. Except the "annex" that we put up with the $150,000 bond issue, it's the same old plant that was given to us by philanthropists twenty-three years ago. The time has come to build it anew.

We've got to remember that bond issue. One week from today we will be declaring our vote on it. Two men among every three who are registered in Atlanta must vote "aye" for it, or it fails. Stay away and don't vote at all, and you have voted "no" just as effectively as if you had cast your ballot against it in the box.

We are face to face with a big question, Atlanta.

It is not "Shall we surpass other cities?" Instead, it is "Shall we try to match other cities? Shall we remedy something discreditable?"

That's what we must answer next Tuesday.

Are you satisfied with an old tumble-down hospital that is totally inadequate to the demands on it? Are you content that your city shall be judged by it? Is it worthy of Atlanta?

There is no opposition to the bond issue. Three-quarters of a million dollars is the sum needed to build a hospital such as Atlanta ought to have. Where is the man who says "Grady is good enough as it is?" Where is he who says "We don't need to spend that much money?"

Indifference alone will make our answer negative next Tuesday. Are you indifferent, Mr. Voter?

METHODIST MINISTERS ASKED TO AID WESLEY

Letters to Be Mailed All Over Georgia in Campaign for Greater Hospital.

Letters are ready now for mailing to every Methodist minister in Georgia, asking co-operation with the ways and means committee of the women's auxiliary of Wesley Memorial hospital in its campaign for a greater hospital. Active steps in the campaign will be taken after the committee's meeting Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Winecoff hotel.

Two emissaries of the committee have arranged personal participation in the campaign. Mrs. Warren Candler will visit the Oxford district, and Mrs. George Thompson will visit the Cordele district.

New subscriptions amounting to $136.37 were added at the committee's latest meeting to the total for Wesley hospital, making it now $26,999.17. These subscriptions were as follows: Mrs. J. T. Benton, Monticello, Ga., $100; Mrs. H. M. Thoroughman, Newnan, Ga., 50 cents; intermediate department of Trinity, $2.90; primary department of Trinity, $2.50; Miss Boerman's class of Trinity, 50 cents; Women's Missionary society of Surrency, Ga., $8. Total, $136.37.

FIVE-YEAR-OLD ATLANTA GIRL WILL BE HONORED

Miss Farrar to Choose One of Six to Appear on Opera Stage Friday.

The honor of appearing in grand opera with Geraldine Farrar will be conferred upon a five-year-old Atlanta girl Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Miss Farrar herself will pick the girl. Her choice to take the part of Cio Cio San's little son when Madam Butterfly is presented at the auditorium Friday night.

A week ago the music association announced that an Atlanta child would be chosen for this part and twenty little girls were brought to the auditorium and there gave their names, addresses, weight, experience, etc.

Postal cards have been sent to a half-dozen of the twenty telling them to be at the stage entrance to the auditorium at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. There Miss Farrar will meet them and choose which of the six she will appear with.

BRITISH GO FORTY MILES TO RESCUE 8 AMERICANS

Detachment of Marines Off English Ship Expected Back Tonight

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Rear Admiral Mayo reported today that Admiral Craddock, of the British cruiser Hermione, had dispatched Major Clark and a detachment of British marines, forty miles inland from Tampico to rescue eight Americans at Orange Hill and was expected back tonight. The Hermione sent thirteen refugees aboard the Des Moines today. Admiral Badger reported that it would be inadvisable to send an American ship to the Yucatan district, "as it might start anti-American demonstrations."

In regard to the reports from Tampico that American citizens there were indignant because of the departure of the American battleships from the river, Secretary of the Navy Daniels said today that this action had been taken after Admiral Craddock had informed Admiral Mayo that he would undertake to receive Americans from Tampico aboard the Hermione and transfer them to the Des Moines upon the American vessels taking a position at sea. This arrangement it was thought, Mr. Daniels said, would make anti-American demonstration in Tampico less likely.

"I will go in and bring the refugees to you," the British admiral was reported to have said to Admiral Mayo.

When the Shriners Come to Town

IN making plans in advance to provide adequate and efficient telephone service during Shrine week we find that many business concerns do not appreciate the magnitude of this gathering. Neither do they seem to realize how severely every public and private utility service will be taxed.

We are urging business institutions, such as hotels, cafes, newspapers, taxicab companies, baggage companies and railroad offices to arrange NOW for additional trunk lines or stations.

We are endeavoring to increase the number of public pay stations and to place pay stations at all central and convenient points. In order to do this we must have the co-operation of the business community. If our representative calls upon you for pay station space, we hope you will give him a hearing and favorable consideration.

Most business concerns will need additional service during Shrine week. Consider your needs now and communicate with the manager so that the equipment may be installed in ample time.

We shall largely increase our operating force and shall spare no pains or expense to render a service of which you will be proud and which will please the visitors.

May we have your co-operation?

OPERA SINGERS SLUMBER, BUT "PETTY" RISES EARLY

Madam Ober's Dachshund Takes in Peachtree and Ponce de Leon

Occupants of street cars and automobiles that whizzed by the Georgian Terrace Tuesday morning craned their necks eagerly toward the veranda expecting to view the Metropolitan stars engaged in all kinds of frivolous pursuits from lean-frogging across the lawn to climbing the porch pillars so as to get a better view of Stone Mountain.

They didn't do exactly that Monday morning, but they were exuberant, very exuberant. Not so Tuesday. The wings of Morpheus still clung to the Terrace at an early hour and the only vestige of the metropolis in sight was a stretch of brown that began at the Terrace steps and ended somewhere on Ponce de Leon avenue.

At one end of this animated bologna sausage was an enormous pink ribbon. At terminus two was a tail. Between them was nothing but dog. The animal cosed along in sections and it took him four minutes by the watch to pass a given point.

Ah, you have guessed it—a daschund. He was conveyed by Madam Ober's husband and the natural conclusion was that the sausage was Madam Ober's dog.

Herr Ober called the beast "Petty." He announced to Herr Hertz, who strolled out front to take a taxi for a rehearsal at the auditorium, that he had been for a half hour's walk with "Petty," not counting the fifteen minutes in which "Petty" held up traffic on Peachtree on his way across.

The tax whizzed off with Herr Hertz, the dachshund tape-wormed into the hotel lobby and the pale sunshine and cool breezes of early morning once more resumed quiet sway over the Terrace verandа.

Sleep, sleep, sleep—that, in very truth, was about all the song-birds did Tuesday. About 10 o'clock the curtains rustled back from Caruso's darkened suite and the golden tenor leaned out clad in a brave, new smoking jacket.

A man across the way in the Ponce de Leon apartments announced to his wife that the Terrace had put up the new awnings already, that they were crimson and black and the largest he ever saw.

A moment later Enrico withdrew to seclusion and the man told his wife it looked like rain. The Terrace awnings had been taken in, he added.

A motor whizzed up the entrance and Madam Gadski, muffled and swathed in veils, emerged from the lobby with her daughter Lotta for an early morning spin.

Ricardo Martin followed, carnationized and dapper, and swung off down Peachtree to take the air. It was evident that the tenor and Madam Gadski regarded balmy southern sunshine as a menace to their voices for the afternoon performance.

But Farrar, Ober, Caruso, Scotti and the others—a precious thing to them the rest and sleep. Let the dachshund stroll. A beautiful day, a lazy, fair, blue-skied day—the only difference was that opera singers must spend the night laboring, while German dogs can dream of sauer-kraut and beer.

Girl Cleared

(By Associated Press.)

SPARTANSBURG, S. C., April 28.—After being out several hours the jury in the case of Clyde C. Clements and Miss Eleda Pendleton, charged with the murder of their infant, returned a verdict of guilty with recommendation to mercy in case of Clements and a verdict of not guilty as to Miss Pendleton.

Geraldine Farrar Is in Retirement, Seeing No Friends

At the Georgian Terrace today a fashionably gowned woman paused before the desk and extracted a card from a jeweled case.

"To Miss Geraldine Farrar, please," she said.

"I'm very sorry," said the clerk. "But Miss Farrar will see no one. She is resting."

The caller smiled.

"But I am Mrs. ——," she said. "I know Miss Farrar very well."

It was no use. Miss Farrar is resting, with a big R. She went to her room shortly after her arrival Saturday and has remained there ever since. She emerged only to sing in "Manon" Monday night, and she will scarcely emerge again until Friday night, when she must sing "Butterfly."

"Miss Farrar has had an exceptionally hard season," her friends say. "Her physicians have warned her against undertaking too much, but she is indomitable. She has the spirit. She will not disappoint. Oh, yes, she will sing 'utterfly,' and sing well. But after that—it will be to Europe for a long, long rest. So that is why none of her friends in Atlanta, and she has many, may see her this week—unless it is that she feels a little brighter than now. You will excuse?"

Mr. Caruso, though in the most robust health, took occasion to guard against distracting noises during his stay in Atlanta. He has a suite of seven or eight rooms at the Terrace and his first order after arrival was that the knobs be removed from every door except the one leading into his reception room.

"Persons come and feel of the knobs. They rattle them, and the noise annoys me," he said. So the house carpenter went for his screw driver.

TWO AUTOS STOLEN AS OWNERS HEAR OPERA

One Found Abandoned on Street, but Other Is Still Missing

Automobiles are greatly in demand during grand opera. So much so that R. I. Barge, 19 Beecher street, who went in his machine Monday night with his wife to "Manon," could not find the auto when he came out of the auditorium, and had to ride back on a street car.

The police were notified, and are looking for the thieves. This car, a four-passenger one, was stolen from among the many parked in front of the auditorium.

Another car, evidently taken by joy riders, was found on Whitehall street near Alabama early Tuesday morning. This machine, belonging to I. M. Sheffield, was stolen, says Mr. Sheffield, from the corner of Hammond and Park streets early Monday night.

N. Y. BANKERS TO INSPECT G. RY. & POWER SECURITIES

Will Be Here Monday and Will Make Visit to Tallulah Falls

A party of some forty bankers, members of J. P. Morgan & Co., of New York, and of Drexel & Co., of Philadelphia, will arrive in Atlanta next Monday on some business connected with the securities of the Georgia Railway and Power company. Reservations have been made for the party at the Georgian Terrace hotel.

H. M. Atkinson, chairman of the board of directors of the power company, asked to be excused when he was questioned. Tuesday, about the bankers' visit.

It is known definitely from other sources, however, that the bankers are coming on the business indicated. It is stated further that they will go to Tallulah Falls during their stay of two days in Georgia, and inspect there the recently completed hydro-electric plant of the power company.

OPEN AIR MEETING FOR W. S. WIER'S CAMPAIGN

Prominent Labor Leader and Adherents May Speak Near Grady Monument

Plans for a big open-air mass meeting in the interest of William S. Wier's campaign for a place on the Fulton county commission will be made Tuesday evening at the meeting of the Labor Legislative league at the Labor temple, 112 Trinity avenue.

The big meeting will probably be held around Grady monument on next Monday evening, the day before the county primary. At the meeting Tuesday night arrangements will also be made for an aggressive finish to the campaign which the league has actively waged in Mr. Wier's behalf.

Mr. Wier was put into the race for the county commission by the league, and its members have worked hard and enthusiastically for his nomination in the primary. He has developed strong support from the general business interests of the city, and his friends confidently predict his nomination by a very large vote.

The meeting of the league Tuesday night will be the last before the county primary and a large attendance is urged.

THE BILL AT THE FORSYTH AS SEEN BY BREWERTON

IN THE LOCAL PLAYHOUSES

The bill of Keith Junior vaudeville and motion pictures at the Grand for the first half of this week was received with great pleasure by Monday night's audience.

One of the hits of the show was "A September Morn in Africa," put on by the three Rainos. It was as funny, as its name implies.

Golden and Hughes, in a song and dance, were clever. Human statues in bronze were shown by the Castillans, who appeared at the Forsyth earlier in the season. This act was a thriller in some respects.

"Cupid's Mistake," a playlet presented by Herbert Hodge and Mildred Lowell, and Magie-Austin and Blake-Mabel, dancers, closed the bill.

Performances are given three times a day, and the bill is changed Mondays and Thursdays.

An interesting and entertaining vaudeville bill is offered at the Forsyth this week. There have been better bills at the Forsyth and there have been worse, but that now holding the boards at this theater is very good by comparison.

The distinctive honors are shared by Conroy and his two diving models, Pop Anson, "the grand old man of baseball," and Valerie Bergere, in a sketch entitled "A Bowery Camille."

Conroy and his pretty young women assistants present an excellent act of posing and diving. Pop Anson delivers an amusing address, with baseball flavor and Miss Bergere and her company offer an emotional drama with a Bowery setting.

Fred Lindsey, the Australian bushman, performs many wonderful stunts with a stock whip and the real comedy of the bill is furnished by Hildegard Mason and George Murray in a potpourri of talk, songs and dances.

Mabel Fitzgerald puts on a very indifferent variety of "silly stuff," and the Aldo brothers open the show with a rather uninteresting exhibition of horizontal bar work.

In the presentation of "Ann Boyd," a Georgia play by a Georgia author at the Lyric theater Monday night, the Lucile LaVerne Stock company scored another distinct success, the third in as many weeks.

Miss LaVerne, in the title role, fits into the part as though it had been molded about her and her interpretation of the lines was decidedly clever. In the emotional parts she was fully equal to the occasion and her work stamped her as an actress far and above the stock class.

And let it be said here that the other members of the cast acquitted themselves most creditably.

The play itself is delightful. The atmosphere of the old south is most appealing and because the scenes are laid in Georgia it is all the more interesting to Atlantians. No more delightful evening can be spent than a visit to the Lyric.

"Ann Boyd" will be seen the remainder of the week, matinee and night.

ATLANTA MAN WOUNDED IN CHARGE AT VERA CRUZ

Alvin M. Johns, Coal Passer on Cruiser Chester, Shot in Left Foot

Alvin M. Johns, of Atlanta, twenty-one years old, a coal passer on the scout cruiser Chester, is one of the sailors wounded in the American occupation of Vera Cruz.

According to a dispatch sent by Admiral Badger, Johns is one of thirteen men who were slightly wounded and whose names were not sent out in the original list.

He was shot in the left foot while charging the tower of the Vera Cruz naval academy, from which the Mexicans put up the stubbornest fight at Vera Cruz.

Johns' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Van de Leon Johns, live at 360 Glenwood avenue. Johns enlisted in Atlanta at the naval recruiting station January 9, 1912.

Among the others in the list of wounded is Levator Benson, who enlisted in Atlanta October 2, 1912. He is an ordinary seaman on the battleship New Hampshire, eighteen years old, whose home is at Lafolette, Tenn. He was slightly wounded in the left calf.

MRS. IDA VON CLAUSSEN DECLARED NOT INSANE

(By Associated Press.)

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 28.—Supreme Court Justice Mills today declared Mrs. Ida Von Claussen not insane and directed that she be released from Matteawan asylum and sent back to the Tombs in New York to await trial on the charge of sending threatening letters to Charles S. Strauss, a lawyer.

Mrs. Van Claussen gained notoriety several years ago by threatening to sue Theodore Roosevelt, then president, for damage because, she averred, he thwarted her plans to be presented to the king of Sweden.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

PHYSICIANS KNOW

Usually Sickness Begins with Torpid Liver and Constipation.

And that's the trouble. Constipation should never be neglected. Why?

All food eaten has some indigestible waste which the liver clears away day by day. An over-supply or a change in your habits sometimes causes the liver to neglect a few particles, which remain in the stomach and make it more difficult the next day for the liver to do its cleansing work. So this waste accumulates and clogs the intestinal canal and causes constipation. That is not all. If the waste is not eliminated it ferments and generates uric acid, a poisonous substance which gets into the blood stream and is carried along through the system to poison it. Self-poisoning or autotoxemia, this is termed medically.

When uric acid is deposited in the joints and muscles you have rheumatism when it touches the nerves, neuralgia, paralysis, nervous prostration, and poisonous irritation of the delicate linings of the nose, throat or stomach; it causes catarrh. These are but the more common uric acid diseases; as the poison accumulates more serious difficulties develop. And constipation and a torpid liver was at the beginning.

Many purgatives taken for a bilious attack, such as calomel, work up the bile, force the liver and bowels to compulsory action and leave them weakened. JACOBS' LIVER SALT is different. It immediately dissolves the uric acid that has accumulated and passes it off in the urine; it flushes and cleanses the intestinal canal, relieving the liver from the pressure of clogged fermentation, and the liver of itself resumes its normal activity. There is no nausea, vomiting or griping, because the action is natural, not forced. It acts quickly, but mildly, and it cures.

Take a glass of EFFERVESCENT WATER, JACOBS' LIVER SALT, before breakfast! It is a good habit. The drink is effervescent and pleasant, and simply wonderful in its stimulant effect upon the liver. Try it. One-half pound jar, 25c (by mail, postpaid). Jacobs' Pharmacy, Atlanta.—(Advt.)

EAST POINT AGAIN WILL GET BIG CONVICT CAMP

College Park Also Pleased With Decision of County Commissioners

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

COLLEGE PARK, Ga., April 28.—The citizens of College Park, East Point and other south side citizens are elated over the fact that the county commissioners have moved one of the large camps of convicts back to the East Point camp. They have the promises of the county board that the convicts will remain here for several months and that many miles of road in this end of the county will be graded and cherted.

The College Park board of trade, at a meeting the first week in April, appointed a committee to take up the matter of street and road improvement with the mayor and council of College Park and the board of county commissioners. Immediately following this action Mayor S. S. Hyde got correspondence with Tull C. Waters, chairman of the county board, resulting in a personal visit before the council and citizens by Mr. Waters. He stated that the convict camp would be moved at an early date and that the needed improvements would be given attention. It is in keeping with this promise that the camp is being moved to East Point this week.

HOTEL STEWARD OFFICIAL FIXER FOR TWO COUPLES

Harry McCay Accomplishes Everything but Tying Knot for Elopers

Harry G. McCay, the steward in an Atlanta hotel, did everything but perform the marriage ceremony Monday for two runaway couples, and Judge Eugene Thomas did that. Mr. McCay engineered the elopemcut, which involved eluding the sheriff of Cartersville and two detectives in Atlanta; bought the licenses, engaged the judge, hired the taxicabs, acted as witness, and sent the couples away with his own blessing to get the parental.

Youth stood in their way, too, but Mr. McCay was not baffled by that. The elders objections, founded on it, were filled in by his cheerful manipulation of the wiles of Cupid.

Miss Dora Bridwell, of 31 East Harris street, and Pat Hosser Shields, of 257 Fulton street, engaged half of Mr. McCay's attention on his busy day. The other half was occupied by the affairs of Miss Lucy Walton, of Cartersville, who is a chum of Miss Bridwell, and Ed Allen, who is a friend of Shields, who is a very close friend of McCay's. In his endeavors to make Shields happy, therefore, Mr. McCay found himself involved in the fortunes of four young people—which is some job for a man with a hotel full of hungry grand opera crowds to feed.

In some way the parents of Miss Walton were informed of the plans, and when Mr. Allen arrived there he met the sheriff instead. He eluded that digitary, however, and a chartered automobile spirited him and Miss Walton away to Atlanta. Here they were met by Miss Lucy and Miss Bridwell and Pat Shields—and two detectives. The quintet escaped the pursuit of the detectives and arrived at Judge Thomas' court where the double knot was tied. Then McCay went back to his hotel and planned dinner for the multitude.

Many Recoveries From Lung Trouble

Eckman's Alterative has restored to health many sufferers from lung trouble. Read what it did in this case:

Wilmington, Del.

"Gentlemen—In January, 1908, I was taken with hemorrhages of the lungs. My physician, a leading practitioner, said that it was lung trouble. I got very weak. C. A. Lippincott, of Lippincott's Department Store, Wilmington, Del. recommended Eckman's Alterative that had done great good. I began taking it at once. I continued faithful, using no other remedy, and finally noticing the clearing of the lungs. I now have no trouble with the lungs. I firmly believe Eckman's Alterative saved my life."

(Abbreviated.)

JAS. SQUIRES.

Eckman's Alterative is most efficacious in bronchial catarrh and severe throat and lung affections, and upbuilding the system. Contains no harmful or habit forming drugs. Accept no substitutes. Sold by all Jacobs' Drug Stores and leading druggists. Write Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet of recoveries.—(Advt.)

Caruso, the Jaunty, Is Hardest Worker In Metropolitan Co.

In Public He Is Gay and Debonair, in Private He Slaves to Perfect His Art

"There goes the hardest working man in the Metropolitan," said one of the company Tuesday. He pointed to Signor Enrico Caruso, who strode debonairly across the veranda to a waiting motor car twirling his cane jauntily and giving a new tilt to creamy Fedora wrapped in a parti-colored band.

"That's straight," he continued. "Caruso, as you see him, is a big boy, fun-loving, full of pranks, fond of gay attire, apparently care free. But you should watch him work.

"No artist I have ever known takes his art more seriously than does Caruso. No matter where he may be, no matter how many entertainments may attract, he gives his three hours each day to practice. His accompanist is always with him, and every day Caruso runs the scales, does exercise, runs over his role for the next performance, works at one particular phrase until he has become its master. No school girl trying for a diploma ever practiced more religiously than he.

"Caruso is no longer merely a tenor with a phenomenal throat. When he first burst into fame the critics said he was no artist, but that nature had given him vocal chords such as no man had ever known before, and it was this and this only which made him great. Perhaps that was true in a measure—then. But it is not true now. He is becoming more and more the finished artist, gaining always more absolute control over every fine shading. When the time comes that the matchless throat loses a bit of its power Caruso still will be the greatest of all tenors. He will be the greatest singer long after his natural gifts have faded."

"DOC" FISHER TO FURNISH AMUSEMENTS AT PARK

Former Journal Employe Secures Concession at Lakewood for Summer

Frank Owens, better known throughout Atlanta as "Doc" Fish," and formerly an office boy for The Journal a number of years ago, has secured the cafe privileges at Lakewood and this summer will conduct an open air resort there for the bathers and other visitors.

In connection with the management of the cafe "Doc" will put on a series of high and fancy diving sets that are calculated to stand one's hair on end. His high dive is executed from a height of seventy-five feet and besides this he will do fancy dives at thirty feet. He is a marvelous swimmer and the cognomen, "Dr. Fish," that was tacked on to him when he carried copy to the composing room, fits him admirably.

On Wednesday, Saturdays, Sundays and holidays he will serve an old-fashioned barbecue in the open air, and promises viands fit for a king.

When the United States volunteer life saving corps was organized here two years ago, "Doc" took a prominent part in the work and his efforts have been rewarded with an appointment as first lieutenant. His love for the water is responsible for his present venture, which promises to be most successful.

Hoke Smith Introduces Resolution on Cost of Mail Transportation

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—A resolution calling on the joint postal commission to submit immediately a report on its investigations of the cost to the government for the transportation of mails was introduced in the senate this morning by Senator Hoke Smith. The resolution was presented with the approval of Postmaster General Burleson, who believes that the information gathered by the joint commission will enable the postoffice department to facilitate and cheapen the cost of parcels post service to the people.

"The postoffice department is anxious to readjust its transportation arrangements with the railroads," explained Senator Smith. "The joint commission has made an exhaustive study of the question. The department desires a readjustment to enable it to expedite the parcels post service."

A great obstacle that has hampered the parcel post service, and tender to maintain the present rates, is the fact that the railway mail cars now in use are not well adapted to the service. They were constructed before the government undertook to transport heavy parcels freight by mail.

As Usual Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co. Shows The Distinct Dress Novelty of the Day

The Rainbow (Copyrighted) Dress

It is as new as the morning.

And still its vogue is thoroughly established---because of its wonderful attractiveness, its distinct individuality. It is smart to an unusual degree---and as a woman remarked as she tried one on "It is such a WEARABLE dress."

Of Crepe de Chine---splendid quality---the bodice and a deep lily pointed flounce or over skirt, are accordion plaited, in the shade of the dress but for a very smart, woven Roman stripe above the waist line and at the edge of the flounce. Half length sleeves lace edged, low collar.

It may be had in navy, Copenhagen, royal, wistaria, bronze green, black and black and white.

But it is hardly fair to DETAIL such a dress. Its charm lies in seeing it as it is.

We have exclusive selling rights for it in Atlanta. It is $25.00.

Huerta apparently has decided to look around for another job.

Diplomacy at Work.

The diplomatic pressure which Germany, France and Great Britain have brought to bear upon Huerta is an important, though not unexpected factor in the Mexican situation. For months past, the weight of European influence has been tacitly in support of the United States' policy toward the usurper, to the extent at least that this policy looked to his retirement. Those Powers recognized Huerta's de facto government when it was first set up, but they did so probably under misapprehension, and evidently they have since realized the impossibility of peace and order so long as he remains. They are now actively supporting a plan of settlement which originated with Argentina, Brazil and Chile, and which, in its general purpose and spirit, is agreeable to the United States.

The efforts of British and German officials have already done much to allay apprehension over American refugees in Mexico. It is clear that their influence in this behalf has not been lost upon the dictator. They have reminded him that ruthless or barbaric treatment of foreigners will arouse the resentment of all civilized countries; and dispatches relate that Americans are now being permitted and even assisted to leave Huerta's territory in safety.

Mediation has a number of problems to deal with. The Tampico incident, the situation at Vera Cruz, the status of the Constitutionalists and of Huerta himself must all be taken into account. Whether diplomacy can untangle these and other knots remains to be seen. Meanwhile it is to be noted that Huerta's position becomes more and more untenable, and also that our Government while well disposed toward a just and honorable settlement through peaceful means is proceeding steadily with plans to uphold all its interests and rights.

South America, as an expert in revolutions, should be a good umpire in the Mexican situation.

News dispatches say that the fruit crop will be safe, provided no further cold weather interferes. The almanacs are pretty well agreed, however, that blizzards are not the usual thing at this season.

Colonel Goethals on Canal Tolls.

Colonel George W. Goethals, builder of the Panama canal, strikes a telling blow against the economic folly and injustice of free tolls for coastwise shipping. He points out, in a statement to the Senate committee, that all available revenue will be needed to meet the canal's current expenses and its indebtedness. Five and a half million dollars a year will be required for its operation and maintenance, three million two hundred thousand a year for interest on bonds, and three million, two hundred and fifty thousand dollars a year for redemption of bonds. Thus the amount that must be secured annually through tolls is approximately twelve million dollars. The exemption of coastwise shipping would cause a deficit which the Government, that is to say the people, would have to pay. Colonel Goethals maintains that all vessels which use the canal should bear their due part of its expenses. That is the only plan which will be fair to the country as a whole and consistent with principles of sound business.

Furthermore, as Colonel Goethals declares, tolls exemption will not result in cheaper rates from coast to coast to either shipper or receiver, but will merely swell profits to shipping syndicates. "Established steamship companies," he says, "fix rates after conference, and as they are in business for profit, they will demand the highest rates the traffic will bear; these rates will be independent of tolls." The same conditions will control rates from interior points to either coast. Railroads and ships will agree upon "through rail and water rates" as they do now, and rates "will be divided between the two interests as per agreement."

"Therefore," concludes the builder of the canal, "free tolls to vessels engaged in coastwise trade will result in a subsidy to a class of shipping already fully protected, and not in need of subsidy. I do not believe in exemption of tolls for coastwise trade, first, because this amounts to subsidy to a class of shipping, and will benefit stockholders alone, not shippers; second, because this canal will need all the revenue it can get to pay its current expenses and indebtedness; third, because the canal will be used largely by foreign ships, and the United States should not tax its own people to pay tolls of foreigners."

Giant Strides for Georgia.

The value of Georgia's farm products increased from sixty-seven million, twenty-nine thousand dollars in 1880 to three hundred and thirty-two millions in 1913, a gain of more than two hundred and sixty-five millions for the three decades. With the exception of Texas, this is the highest record attained by any Southern State.

Especially significant is the increased production of foodstuffs. Corn, for instance, has advanced from less than twenty-two million bushels in 1880 to more than sixty-three million bushels in 1913; Irish potatoes from four hundred and thirty-one thousand bushels in 1899 to nine hundred and seventy-two thousand bushels in 1913; sweet potatoes from five million, eighty-seven thousand, six hundred and seventy-four, to seven million, two hundred and twenty thousand bushels between 1899 and 1913. The value of cattle on Georgia farms increased more than five million dollars in the decade 1900-1910, the value of swine increased nearly three millions, and that of poultry from a million, four hundred and fifty-eight thousand and fifty-five dollars to two million, eight-eight thousand, six hundred and fifty-three dollars.

The rate of increase in food and forage crops has been still more notable in the last two years. The following table compiled by the Georgia Chamber of Commerce from reports of the States Department of Agriculture indicates the monetary gains in six of these crops from 1912 to 1913:

Corn	$57,351,000	$45,864,000
Wheat	2,050,000	1,498,000
Irish potatoes	1,021,000	814,000
Sweet potatoes	4,910,000	4,811,000
Hay	6,265,000	5,372,000
Oats	6,238,000	4,921,000

An accompanying fact of much importance is the growth in the number of small farms in Georgia. In 1880 this State had only forty-eight thousand, four hundred and twenty-nine farms less than fifty acres in size; in 1910, it had one hundred and seventeen thousand, four hundred farms of less than fifty acres. Farms ranging from fifty to one hundred acres have increased from twenty-six thousand and fifty-four in 1880 to sixty-eight thousand, five hundred in 1910, while farms of more than a thousand acres have decreased from three thousand, four hundred and ninety-one in 1880 to one thousand, give hundred and twenty-one in 1910. The average area of the improved Georgia farm in 1914 is from seventy-five to a hundred acres, a fact which leads the State Chamber of Commerce to observe: "The once prevalent impression that it requires large holdings of land in the South to make a success is clearly erroneous. Many of the former large plantations have been cut up into smaller farms which have become far more profitable than under the old regime."

It is evident, indeed, that the day of the great plantation devoted almost entirely to cotton is at an end. The tyranny of the single-crop idea has given place to diversification just as easygoing methods of planting, tillage and marketing have yielded to scientific, businesslike farm management. While the State is not producing less cotton, it is producing a vast deal more food supplies; its agriculture is becoming broader, more independent and far richer in opportunities for the average man.

What Georgia has accomplished since 1880, and especially since 1900, is chiefly interesting as an earnest of what she can accomplish in the years ahead. For, the wealth and variety of her resources have as yet been barely touched. Only thirty-two per cent of her land is now under cultivation. She has an area as large as England's and Wale's combined. Until recent decades she has progressed in the face of great difficulties; henceforth she will stride forward with unhampered vigor.

Our idea of a thoroughgoing conservative is the man who doesn't change 'em until the first of June.

The Mexican complication will not have been without the resulting stream of historical romances.

The latest census estimate is that we have 100,000,000 people, a considerable percentage of whom are ready to go to Mexico.

We think that South and Central America should realize by now that the United States has no annexation schemes in mind.

Editorials in Brief

Sir: To many persons one of the most vexing problems of the day is the pronouncication of the word "maxixe." I have heard "matcheeks," "matchestch" and even find that some who ought to know better call it "macksecce." There are others, too, but hopelessly beyond any spelling. It used to be spelled "machiche," or even "matchitche," the former clearly a Spanish spelling, which would give us "matcheech." I remember a popular air often heard in France six or eight years ago that went by that name. But what the dance people are now doing under the name "maxixe" is said to be Brazilian, so it would be spelled "machiche" in Portuguese. Can you help us out?

Answer: Yes, we can help you out. Webster's New International Dictionary says "maxixe" is pronounced "mah-shee'-shah."

HEGESIPPE SIMON

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

(Copyright, 1914, by Frank Crane.)

There is in the world a worse thing than being ignorant; it is the fear of seeming ignorant.

Ignorance is no disgrace if a man is aware of it and honestly confesses it. In fact, it is a relative term: we are all ignorant each in his degree, and the higher one is in the scale of wisdom the more goodnaturedly he admits his limitations. The words most on Socrates' lips were, "I don't know."

A wag in France has "put one over" on the distinguished statesmen of that country, and all Europe is roaring.

He wrote to the members of the municipal council and of the chamber of deputies proposing to erect a statue to Hegesippe Simon, the renowned "precursor and educator of democracy." His letter was on paper upon which was the printed heading, "Committee on the Centenary of Hegesippe Simon." There was also a quotation drawn, naturally, from the works of the distinguished author, "When the sun rises the clouds vanish."

The circular epistle extolled the great and unappreciated work of the "precursor," and added that some unknown wealthy man had offered to pay for the statue.

Favorable responses were received from nine deputies, an ex-minister, fifteen senators and three counsellors. They had never heard of Simon, but life is short and history is long and one cannot be expected to have heard of everybody. In any event, it would not cost anything, and why not come in on this movement, which would doubtless be duly exploited by the newspapers?

Many more might have allowed their names to appear on the committee had not Leon Bourgeois smelled a mouse and warned his colleagues.

Then it all came out. There never was a Hegesippe Simon save in the fertile brain of the gentleman who had devised the hoax.

How many a man has been made a fool by his silly vanity—by his fear to say frankly, "I don't know!"

There is an old story, which is in point, of one who bet another $10 he couldn't say the Lord's Prayer. The stakes were put up, and the challenged man proved his knowledge by reciting:

> Now I lay me down to sleep;
> I pray the Lord my soul to keep;
> If I should die before I wake,
> I pray the Lord my soul to take.

The first man paid over the money, exclaiming: "Well, by gum! I didn't think you knew it so well."

Let us here charitably not speak of those who rave over old masters and haven't the slightest idea of what they signify; of those who burn incense before "The Walkyrie," yet inwardly prefer "The Merry Widow"; nor of those who publicly adore the Cubists while what really pleases them is the art calendar of a brewery. Why be disagreeable? We all practice our little bluffs.

Are You Helping to Destroy Wild Flowers?

By E. K. WOOLEY.

(Copyright, 1914, by E. K. Wooley.)

Now that we're thinking of the woods and fields and spring flowers, I wish we would all tak to heart a letter which has just come to me.

"Recently a fine article appeared in one of the papers condemning the ruthless destruction of songbirds," she writes. "Is not the careless destruction of wild flowers just as unnecessary and wrong? Grown folks as well as the children will be going out into the country now. They will take every flower in sight, even destroying the roots; take them home in armfuls, then, too tired to even place them in water, let the poor things wither and die.

"A handful of posies gives as much pleasure to a true lover of flowers as a whole armful. Would that we could teach that everyone should pick a few flowers, and those without destroying the roots, then leave the others stand for the enjoyment of those who may be passing that way afterward."

Wild flowers are not so abundant, especially near the big cities, that we can afford to waste them and destroy the roots so that they will bloom less abundantly year after year. But haven't you often come across the trail of some wildflower wasted, made plain by bunches and sprays of dying flowers which have been plucked or pulled out of the ground and thrown away when they began to wither or because somebody grew tired of carrying them?

There are always the wasters and the devastators who, because they think certain things are free, greedily take more than they want or need, and do not hesitate to destroy just for the lust of destroying.

Just as the greatest enemy of our birds is mankind, the greatest enemy of the wild flowers is mankind—though I must say that mankind in the latter instance should comprise only women and children, for, as a rule, grown men will pick only a few flowers, or, perhaps, only one, to enjoy. Unless he is a farmer and considers many of the beautiful wild flowers as weed pests in his fields a man is contented to enjoy them as Nature placed them.

With regard to birds, however, men and boys are the destroyers. As soon as the birds arrive in the spring, gangs of men and boys (mostly from the foreign population, it must be said) invade the suburbs and the country with guns and birdtraps. On Mr. Rockefeller's Forest Hill estate, I have been told, the Italian workmen laid snares for the songbirds and when they went home at night packed their "catches" in their dinner pails. Birds make a toothsome morsel. In Italy, it is said, one never hears the song of a bird in the country. The little feathered things have all been eaten.

THE PROOFROOM-ELUDING CHAMPIONSHIP.

Sir: I note with much amusement, and a bit of scorn, Old Orson Lowell's challenge to me in Saturday's Tower.

Waiving the fact that my offerings were genuine "proofroom eluders" and not the errors of an illiterate clientele of correspondents, I will make the following proposition to Mr. Lowell: I will wager one well-rendered, slightly worn vocal selection against an original pen and ink illustration that between now and June first my name will be incorrectly spelled more times than his, the samples to be submitted to the Editor of the Column, who will examine them, satisfy himself as to their validity and make the decision. I realize that some of my friends will say that I am taking an unfair advantage of Mr. Lowell, having better and rawer material to work with, but I feel that he needs to be shown up; hence this def—winner take all—motion picture rights, seventy-five, twenty-five—kidney punch allowed.

REINALD WERRENRATH.

But this column reserves all other rights to the errors on Mr. Werrenrath's name, including that of translation into foreign languages, including the Scandinavian. (Chart: Josh on copyright notice in front of books, and Mr. Werrenrath is a Dane.)

Garden City's fastest growing publishing house, despite its motto, "Fewer and Better Books," continues to pester us for another collection of our Imperishable Idyls. But concerted meditation for three minutes fails to give a title for the book. Wherefore, as hitherto, a prize is offered, of any $1 book the winner may name, for the fittingest name for such a tome.

We are not more vindictive than most, but if a prodigal newspaper insists on electric-signing our fame, and the light from the sign has to shine in somebody's face and keep him awake, we'd as soon not that it be in the countenance of the janitor who doesn't repair a leaking water-tank.

It is too long to quote in full, but the St. Augustine (Fla.) Record's poem, "Lines Inspired by a Trip on the Ocklawaha River," is, discredit us not, considerable elegiac. Give this stanza the double-o.

> Our party was small, we just numbered five,
> But all true blue and very much alive.
> Four of us hailed from Toledo, Ohio,
> While I came from Georgia—now draw your chair nigher.

THE SEARCHLIGHT

The SeXets of Mars.

The planet Mars is still under investigation. Unlike most mysteries, making a big sensation at first but fizzling out as time passes, this one of the high heavens is still kept in the spotlight by all the leading astronomers of the world. Among the most valuable observations on Mars are the monthly reports of Prof. William H. Pickering, of the Harvard observatory. The comments of Charles Nevers Holmes on the moons of that planet are also interesting.

Of recent months some strange changes in the vicinity of the north pole of Mars have been seen through the great telescopes of this planet. Four marshes were located in that region, but later three of them dried up, indicating that the supply of water was going down. In regard to the south pole, recent observations noted what appeared to be great banks of cloud from 1,200 to 1,800 miles in length, but later they cleared away. The snows in this region appear fainter than they do at the north pole.

Prof. Pickering is of the opinion that the meterology of Mars is not very different from that of our own planet. It is believed that the winds on the stranger are stronger, and that the temperature varies more than it does here. Two lakes and four canals were distinctly seen a short ago. The twin bays on the rim of the north pole were seen recently by a French astronomer, and the Lowell observatory has noted a number of canals.

UNEMPLOYMENT

IV.—CHARITY WORK.

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

The records of charity are filled with the personal aspects of unemployment. Organized in a gigantic business in this country, with disbursements for the relief of the destitute amounting to many millions of dollars annually, charity is, and long has been, the greatest factor in dealing with the distress of enforced idleness. It has struggled bravely to mitigate the misery of those unable to maintain their places in the world of workers, and, while it undoubtedly has accomplished much toward temporary, and even permanent relief, of numbers of unfortunates it has just as certainly magnified the problem which it has sought to solve.

* * *

The records of charity work, nevertheless, are invaluable. In them appear masterful drawings of the various types of the unemployed ready for the use of the student and the statesman. They also teach how urgent it is to do away with conditions making necessary a tremendous business of almsgiving. They tell tens of thousands of tales of economically wasted wealth, ineffective generosity, and fruitless energy.

* * *

No city is without its public and private charities. In the larger cities these organizations are numbered by the score. Relief work has come to be as necessary a part of each community's business as are public improvements, waterworks, courts and police administrations. The whole class of unemployed is continually filtering through these offices of organized charity. In fact, charity is the institution of the unemployed. With the solution of the problem of enforced idleness, need for a national business of charity would disappear.

* * *

Every opportunity is given to the charity worker to make intimate studies of the havoc wrought by insufficient employment, and many social workers have accumulated almost inexhaustible stores of valuable information. They have kept careful records of all cases of application for help, showing the previous history of the applicant, his occupation, his work record; whether married, single, divorced or separated; age, education, habits, whether a drinker or drug taker, and the cause of neediness. This data makes a good commentary upon the whole problem of unemployment.

* * *

Among the great variety of types that apply to the charitable organizations for assistance, none is more pathetic than that of the unemployed old man, who, without friends or family, is forced to battle for subsistence through his short remaining years. Most of these old men have a far greater dread of the poor house, it has been found, than of slow starvation. With the ways and the people of their generation gone, with hope and promise swallowed in the past, and nothing but lonesome, bare independence to struggle for, they go from job to job, just existing by stretching their scanty earnings over their periods of unemployment. These men are the most difficult to help.

* * *

Today when a man reaches the age of fifty or he has not succeeded in storing away enough to provide for age from the labors of his youth and prime or has no sturdy children to care for him, his case is, indeed, an unhappy one. Such is the strain of modern business life that the employer looks with disfavor upon age, and the old man has an arduous task to convince anyone that he is worthy to be hired.

* * *

So the thousands of old men who apply at the offices of charity organizations for assistance, fifty, sixty and even seventy years of age, are a sad, sad problem. Few of them will accept the verdict that they are "too old to work." They refuse to believe that they are old enough to be thrown on, and that are filled with dread of the poorhouse. In spite of repeated failure and hardship, the old man generally assures the charity worker that all will only be needed "temporarily" and expresses faith that he will be located soon.

* * *

These unemployed old men are drawn from every class. There are doctors, lawyers, writers and business men among their number, as well as unskilled and partly skilled laborers, mechanics, clerical workers and salesmen. A greater part of these applicants are not men who have been idle or profligate, but have been good, industrious citizens, who either have earned incomes incompatible with saving or have lacked in foresight. Some, too, have been impoverished by failures late in life. There are also, of course, among them the vagrant, the licentiate, the criminal and other types of the unfit.

* * *

Loss of savings through bank failures, business reverses, ill health, accidents, the receipt of insufficient or irregular wages during the working years, family misfortunes, lack of business sense, and sudden loss of place after years of faithful service in one business are among the causes enumerated in the records of the social service worker for the destitute old man.

* * *

A typical story of one old man of eighty years who applied to a charity bureau in a large city for work is a story of scattered glimpses. The man had been a farm hand in his youth. As a young man he became convinced by a revivalist that his vocation was the ministry. He served six years as a country pastor. Then he removed to the city and studied law. He turned to politics, and held several public offices. Losing his political future with the failure of his party, he entered a mercantile house as a clerk. Finally, losing this place through the incapacity of advancing age, he fell to the plane of the unskilled laborer, maintaining his weary existence by working irregularly at the roughest kinds of tasks. This old man nearly starved to death in his tiny room before consenting to let the charity organization place him in the poorhouse. In the description of his case there is an interesting account of his last fort of independence. It was filled with books and pamphlets, where, returned from the menial drudgery of the day, the old man would munch his bread and oleomargarine, and study. His little library filled every corner, the chair, the window sill, and even his narrow cot.

* * *

The run-away boy also largely figures in the social service records. In his case, however, there is a buoyancy and hope which is absent in the old man's case. Unmanageable, adventurous and inexperienced in the ways of the world, these boys, when not taken in hand in time, are generally spoiled by their life on the road and develop into permanent vagrants, or are reduced to the class of the chronically unemployed.

* * *

According to the records of the charity organizations, the physical conditions of men play a large part in the problem of unemployment. Sickness is one of the most common causes for the beginning of chronic unemployment. The sick man has lost his place in the working world, his savings have been swallowed in his care, debt has piled up, while still in early convalescence, he is forced to go out and seek work for the protection of his family, and, with his condition, appearance and necessity against him, he is forced permanently into the class of irregularly

DIPLOMATS START WORK TO RESTORE PEACE IN MEXICO

Huerta's Formal Acceptance of Offices of South American Ministers Paves Way for Peace in Country

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, April 28.—With the swinging of the pendulum in the Mexican crisis—Huerta's formal acceptance of the good offices of the South American diplomats—President Wilson and his advisers today awaited the setting of the stage on which representatives of Argentina, Brazil and Chile hope to bring peace to Mexico. Until early today the envoys remained in conference completing preliminary plans of the proposed mediation.

Coincident with the conference of the mediators, President Wilson and the cabinet met in regular session, the subject of absorbing interest being the Mexican situation with peace proposals as the particular matter under consideration.

Ambassador DaGama, of Brazil, sought to confer with the secretary of state but Mr. Bryan, being at the cabinet meeting, the Spanish ambassador informed Robert Lansing, counsellor of the department that General Huerta has given assurances that he would protect Americans in departing from Mexico.

When members of the cabinet reached the White House at 11 o'clock to enter upon the usual deliberations confronting them, all of them appeared more cheerful than they had been for many days and expressed hope that from something tangible would come from the proposals to mediate the dispute.

No new orders were issued from the navy or war departments, but there was enthusiastic interest among department heads over the arrival at Vera Cruz of the transports bearing the fifth army brigade under Brigadier General Funston.

ENVOYS MEET.

The envoys of the three nations resumed their sessions early today at the Argentine legation in an effort to compromise the Mexican crisis.

NO FURTHER MOVE.

They were in cotninuous session well after noon and no further move in the formal negotiations had been made public. Ambassador Riano, at the Spanish embassy, was awaiting the next communication from the mediators.

With the acceptance of both governments now definitely before them, the three envoys occupied a semi-mediatory attitude almost in the nature of an international tribune considering the attitude and desires of each side and seeking to find some middle ground on which both could stand. The sessions are all private and surrounded by every safeguard against premature discussion of plans. It was known, however, that the chief effort of today was to try to perfect a plan on which they have been working ever since their tender of good offices was made. This will be laid before the two governments at the earliest moment.

Huerta's reply, conveyed through his minister for foreign affairs to Mr. Riano, Spanish ambassador in Washington, was received late last night and was presented to Secretary Bryan today.

TENOR WAS KNOWN.

His tenor was expected because Mr. Riano had received private advices that the terms of Huerta would accept. The text of the acceptance was not made public, but it was said to have uttered in the spirit of solidarity between peoples of a same race."

To what lengths the "good offices" of the South Americans might reach was an absorbing topic in official Washington and the entire diplomatic corps today. Other features in the situation largely were lost sight of except among army and navy officials charged with execution of preparations for eventualities.

Taut nerves and the anxiety of the last few days were relieved by news that Americans were leaving dangerous in the southern republic, while reports of tranquility along the border were encouraging. "Things look much better now," Secretary Daniels said. "We're getting Americans out of Mexico. That's the important thing now."

WILSON GREATLY PLEASED.

When news of Huerta's acceptance was taken to President Wilson he declared himself greatly pleased. However he made no other comment. In official and diplomatic circles expressions were heard that whatever had been accomplished by the peacemakers up to this point must have a good effect in the situation.

Der Rosenkavalier

By Nana Tucker

Wed. Evening April 29

"DER ROSENKAVALIER," Richard Strauss' three-act "Comedy for Music," which was first produced in Dresden in 1911, had its American premiere at the Metropolitan this winter as the notable event of the season.

The mantle of Wagner having fallen upon his countrymen, Strauss is today the most colossal figure in the musical world. With all means at his command to convey whatever message he will in his marvelous creations, it is the more to be deplored that such wealth of melodic invention and consummate mastery of orchestration should be allied to texts as unattractive as "Salome" and "Elektra," and now Hofmannsthal's story of "The Rose Bearer."

He himself explains his departure into the field of comedy as an escape from the more oppressive atmosphere of his heavier operas and symphonic works.

But the "libretto is not such an one as the foremost German composer would have been expected to choose. The scene is laid in a realistic age presenting a double set of amorous intrigues not in keeping with modern susceptibilities, yet the music is full of elegance and grace, as well as abounding in vivacity and humor.

With eight principal roles, more than twelve minor solo parts, and a rich and complex musical setting containing not less than 118 separate themes, the work is a difficult one, brilliantly varied.

OPERA OPENS IN BOUDOIR OF PRINCESS.

The action takes place in Vienna, in the time of the Empress Maria Theresa. The first scene discloses the luxurious apartment of the Princess von Werdenberg, who is reclining on a couch, while kneeling at her side a young courtier, Count Octavian (this part is taken by a woman, a mezzo soprano), gives himself to the most ardent protestations of love.

The princess (soprano), unhappily married to the now absent Field Marshal, is several years the senior of her youthful admirer, but the impetuous ardor of his romantic passion seems to completely fascinate her. While they sing their exquisite duet, "Why Dawneth Day," through the open window the twittering of birds is heard.

At the door the tinkle of silver bells announces the approach of the gaily-decked little Moorish serving boy bearing a tray with the princess' chocolate, and Octavian steps behind the screen until he is gone.

The impassioned and rather prolonged love scene is again interrupted, this time by the noisy entrance of the Baron von Ochs (bassos), a foolish country cousin, who in spite of the angry protests of the Major Domo, forces his way unbidden into the presence of his kinswoman at this early hour of the forenoon.

BEAUTY OF MAID ATTRACTS BARON.

Octavian to avoid detection quickly disguises himself in the dress of a lady's maid, but before he can make his escape his gay beauty so attracts the Falstaffian Baron that, forgetting the object of his present visit, to enlist the aid of the Princess in his proposed marriage with Sophia Faninal, he immediately begins a flirtation with the supposed waiting maid, "Marlandel."

Now to the most vivacious music the comedy affords. In the liveliest trio "Marlandel," enjoying the situation too much to obey the frantic signals of the Princess to withdraw, serves the chocolate, while the Baron with many asides to the "maid," informs the Princess that he has condescended to become engaged to the daughter of a wealthy but newly titled nobleman, and begs that she will provide him a Rosenkavalier, a young noble to present to him and in accordance with the German custom, to present his fiancee with a silver rose the rose of betrothal.

The Princess suggests Count Octavian as a suitable envoy, showing a miniature of him which at once impresses the Baron with its likeness to "Marlandel," but he at last departs without suspecting Octavian and "Marlandel" to be one and the same person, "Marlendel" slips out.

HUMOR, FANTASY AND MIRTH ALL DISPLAYED.

And now follows the scene for which the composer uses all powers for expressing in music humor, fantasy, and the very spirit of mirth. The Princess, in keeping with the system of the time, has her morning interview with her attorney, head cook, literary adviser, animal dealer and various pensioners while her hair is being dressed—a flute player and an Italian tenor also being added to help divert her during the operation.

When the fandub is over and the footman closes the door on the last one of the parasites the Princess left alone sings a lovely soliloquy, a monologue—now sad, now gay, which is one of the most beautiful and most poetically conceived numbers in the opera.

Octavian in riding dress now returns to renew his extravagant love making, but the Princess with premonition of a time when he must love another sings her mournful aria, "And time, how strangely goes its ways."

And sends him sadly from her, dispatching a footman after him with the casket containing the silver rose for the Baron's fiancee. When the curtain falls she is in deep thought, her head in her hands.

SOPHIA AWAITS THE BARON'S MESSENGER.

To the rhythm of a genuine Vienna waltz act second opens brilliantly in the house of Herr von Faninal, who, taking counsel of his major domo as to conduct befitting his new rank, is absenting himself from the house while his daughter Sophia (high soprano) and her duenna, Marianne (soprano), await the ambassador from the baron.

As the little Sophia, who has not yet seen the man to whom her father has affianced her, is praying that she may prove worthy of the honor soon to be conferred upon her, Octavian, clad in white and silver, bearing the silver rose, and followed by a train of attendants, is ushered in with great ceremony. The music for the presentation is of almost magical beauty.

From the moment of meeting the two are attracted to each other, and when Faninal returns bringing the baron, Sophia is so repelled by his uncouth ways she refuses to marry him, and appeals to Octavian for protection; whereupon Octavian, declaring his sudden passion for her, deals the half-intoxicated baron a sword thrust, and devises a strategy to be rid of him and rescue Sophia.

During the confusion which ensues, and while the outraged Faninal is having the baron's wound dressed, Octavian has Annina (alto), who with her husband, Valzacchi, is a sort of private detective, slyly put into the hands of the baron's letter from "Marlandel," bidding him sup with "her" at a nearby inn the next evening. The act closes with the baron's love song, "With me, with me time shall seem short always."

BARON KEEPS TRYST WITH "MARLANDEL."

Themusic of the third act is made up almost entirely of waltz motives. In a room of the inn landlord and waiter, Valzacchi, annina and others are in waiting when the baron arrives. Dance music is heard in an adjoining room, and Octavian dressed as "Mariandel" enters.

Now while supper is served, and during the sprightly tete-a-tete, strange faces appear in and out of windows and unexpected panels, and so many tricks are played on the baron he thinks the world is going mad.

Finally when the commissary of police threatens to arrest him his body servant rushes off for Faninal and the princess, which only adds to the complication.

When Faninal appears, followed by Sophia in a sedan chair, the very panels on the walls reverberate with muffled voices the word "Disgrace, Disgrace!" The poor baron is beside himself; Sophia is overcome with mortification; and Faninal has a stroke of apoplexy.

SOPHIA AND HER LOVER UNITED.

Meanwhile the princess, followed by her attendants, arrives on the scene in a state of perplexity at first, but when Octavian drops his disguise she understands all, and smooths things over for every one by declaring it all only a diversion.

The crowd is dispersed, and the baron after being made to pay the bills is suffered to go away in peace, while she salves the wounded pride of Faninal by taxing him home in her coach, first gaining his consent to a union between Sophia and Octavian.

After the first surprise that her arden courtier has so quickly transferred his affections the princess shows no resentment, but graciously gives the young people her blessing as she joins them in a lovely trio.

This is followed by the tender aria, "I Need to Love Him Rightly"; and she quietly departs leaving Octavian and Sophia to sing their long but very musical duet, "Tis a Dream." When at last they pass out the door the loving embrace, the stage remains empty for some time, when the little Moorish servant minces in, in search of a kerchief Sophia has dropped, waves it aloft and trips gaily out. The end.

SOCIALISTS PLAN GREAT TIME AT ANNUAL PICNIC

TO PASS ON WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION ISSUE

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Conflicting views of the federal and state courts of Washington as to the correct construction of the state workmen's compensation act of 1911 resulted in the supreme court deciding to pass upon the issue.

The point in dispute is whether this law applies only to the liability of employes or to strangers as well.

Boils Biliousness Malaria Constipation

Are You Troubled?

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

Perhaps this case may be similar to yours

J. Wesley Tilly of (Box 672,) Selma, Cal., writes:

"It gives me much pleasure to be able to send you a testimonial, if by its reaching some sufferer another medicine will do as much for him as they have for me. At the age of fourteen I was troubled a great deal with malaria and biliousness, accompanied with the worst sort of large boils. I was persuaded by my parents, who have always strongly believed in Dr. Pierce's remedies, to try the Golden Medical Discovery. I took one bottle and the boils all disappeared, but I did not stop at one bottle, I took three and the malaria all left me and I have had no more boils to this day, thanks to the Golden Medical Discovery' for my relief.

"Before I took for appendicitis two years ago I was troubled very much with constipation and I have been using Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets and they have entirely rid me of the troublesome gas and have also kept in control the appendicitis. I am glad to write you this letter, hoping that it may be the means of some Common Sense Medicine for you."

Carefulness

That is the store's watchword. Carefulness in watching against imperfections and shortcomings in the goods we take in; carefulness in the selling of these goods and in sending them home.

There are errors committed, to be sure. The modern store is as complex as a battleship, and it is impossible that everything shall work exactly right all the time—but scientific storekeeping more nearly approaches perfection than did any of the old methods. There is greater accuracy; less waste—hence, more comfortable and economical service.

Chinese Sea Grass Furniture

Sea grass, gathered from the China Sea and along the Yangtse-Kiang River, is cured, dried and hand-woven into a cord, which is then woven through the strands of reed to form a complete, compact article. As this grass grows on the ocean, it naturally offers the greatest resistance to the effects of moisture and is to all intents and purposes waterproof.

No bamboo is used in the construction of this furniture. As a base, Malacca cane—the strongest and most elastic rattan—is used. At the seat the frame is further reinforced by binding with strands of peel cane. Reinforced at point of heaviest strain, resilient and elastic, this Chinese Sea grass furniture is superior to all other grass makes.

No shellac or other finish is needed and the goods are sold in their natural state. You can scrub them with brush and water, though care should be taken to remove all dust before wetting.

Chair as shown, $8. Rocker to match, $8.50. Table to match, $7.50. Stools, $3. (Furniture, Fourth Floor.)

Beautiful Music and Handsomely Gowned Women Mark Opening of Opera Season

LOVELY VISITORS FROM NORTH CAROLINA

WHEN the famous crimson and gold curtain of the Metropolitan was drawn aside Monday evening the assembled galaxy of stars among whom were some of the greatest singers of the world viewed one of the largest and most representative audiences ever assembled in the mammoth auditorium.

Visitors from all over the south were in attendance, and every seat in the great building was occupied.

The floor of the house and the boxes presented a brilliant appearance with an array of lovely women gowned in silks and satin of every hue. The glittering jewels worn and the exquisite flowers carried by debutantes and matrons transformed the building into the semblance of an immense flower garden.

Great applause greeted the initial appearance of the Metropolitan company in "Manon," as many in the cast of the premiere were great social favorites, and are always delightfully entertained during their stay in the city. The singers responded graciously to enthusiastic and repeated curtain calls and evinced pleasure and satisfaction in the ovation received.

After the opera the clubs and hotels were the scenes of many delightful supper parties, at several of which the great stars were honor guests.

Among the beautifully gowned women seen Monday evening at the opera were:

Mrs. John Marshall Slaton, who was gowned in blue brocaded satin, the corsage veiled with rare lace, and she wore pink orchids.

Miss Dorothy Hebert, of New Orleans, wore a lovely gown of white satin veiled with lisse, and she carried an armful of American Beauty roses.

Mrs. William D. Grant wore grey brocade veiled with lace.

Mrs. James R. Gray wore an imported gown of green satin; duchess lace was introduced upon the bodice and continued upon the gracefully draped skirt and she carried orchids and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. J. A. Gallogly was gowned in green satin veiled with pale green tulle and she wore a corsage of Richmond roses.

Mrs. T. M. Brumby, Jr., wore a beautiful costume of white charmeuse satin, trimmed with crystal embroidered net, and her flowers were white roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. John L. Patterson wore pink satin charmeuse veiled with orchid-tinted brocaded chiffon and her corsage bouquet was of lilies of the valley.

Mrs. William T. Newman wore an imported model of white satin veiled with black brocaded chiffon and her corsage was of Parma violets and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. John S. Cohen was gowned in white shadow lace veiling white satin, bordered in in Persian design and her corsage was of liberty roses.

Mrs. Inman Gray was gowned in rose pink silk crepe, the corsage was veiled with soft embroidered chiffon, and she wore a corsage of pale pink Killarney roses.

Mrs. Richard T. Wilson, of Nashville, Tenn., was gowned in canary-colored satin charmeuse, the bodice outlined with a tracery of silver threads and she carried white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. J. R. Gray, Jr., was gowned in pale blue crepe combined with satin of a deeper hue and she wore a corsage of pink rosebuds.

Mrs. James E. Hickey wore white satin with overdress of black tulle embroidered with silver and rhinestones.

Mrs. Stanley Hubert Dent, of Washinton, D. C., was costumed in satin brocaded with tints of flesh and she carried pink roses.

Mrs. Robert C. Alston was gowned in ivory white satin combined with soft chiffon, the tracery of rhinestones on the corsage being continued on the draped skirt.

Miss Katherine Ellis wore a beautiful gown of white satin charmeuse, the short coat jacket brocaded with rhinestones, and the same trimming introduced upon the gracefully draped skirt. She carried white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Miss Helen Dargan was attired in a white brocaded gown with crystal trimming, and a corsage of valley lilies.

Mrs. Frank S. Ellis was very handsome in white brocaded satin, the bodice outlined with a tracery of rhinestones and she carried pink roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. Frank Callaway wore a becoming frock of yellow brocade with bodice of beaded chiffon over flesh-colored net.

Mrs. Milton Dargan was attractive in an imported gown of white charmeuse veiled in black lace with girdle of jet.

Mrs. Frank Inman wore a lovely gown of pale pink satin with over-draperies of crystal lace.

Mrs. K. Ward Smith wore apricot silk with black tunic embroidered in crystal beads.

Mrs. Blair Smith, of New York, was gowned in white satin with draperies of yellow chiffon embroidered in yellow and white beads.

Mrs. Nathan Jenks wore white satin with net in sequins.

Mrs. Bates Block was charming in a gown of a pale blue chiffon veiled in shadow lace.

Mrs. William H. Kiser wore a lovely white taffeta model trimmed in bands of silver-threaded lace.

Mrs. Carroll Putnam Lord, of Mississippi, was a charming visitor wearing a black lace robe embroidered in silver.

Mrs. Robert W. Hunt was gowned in blue crepe trimmed in filmy shadow lace.

Mrs. Gordon Kiser was attractive in flesh-colored satin veiled in ciel blue chiffon embroidered in crystals, with corsage of orchids and valley lilies.

Mrs. Hughes Spalding wore a becoming model of shell pink taffeta with bodice and ruffles of shadow lace and corsage of pink orchids and lilies of the valley.

Supper Dance at Capital City Club Beautiful Event

Following the opera Monday evening, 500 guests were entertained at the Capital City club. The brilliant occasion brought together the artists of the Metropolitan Opera company, and many interesting visitors from all parts of the south, who are being delightfully entertained during opera week by Atlanta hosts and hostesses.

Seated at a long table, festive with crimson meteor roses and fern sprays, were Colonel and Mrs. William Lawson Peel, the directors of the Atlanta Music Festival association and a number of the opera artists.

The main dining room of the club was filled with small tables, seating parties of ten and twelve, as were the salon and the gentlemen's and ladies' cafes.

Purple stocks and pink tulips adorned each individual table and the minor appointments of the supper introduced a springtime note in the garlands of roses encircling the bonbon holders and in the dainty rose-embossed cakes.

A dance followed the supper, in which the guests participated until a late hour.

Among the large number present were Colonel and Mrs. William Lawson Peel, Signor Andreae de Segurola, Signor Antonio Scotti, Dr. and Mrs. Lewellys F. How I Darkened My Gray Hair

Lady Gives Simple Home Recipe That She Used to Darken Her Gray Hair

For years I tried to restore my gray hair to its natural color with the prepared dyes and stains, but none of them gave satisfaction and they were all expensive. I finally ran onto a simple recipe which I mixed at home that gives wonderful results. I gave the recipe, which is as follows, to a number of my friends, and they are all delighted with it. To 7 oz. of water add a small box of Barbo Compound, 1 oz. of bay rum and 1-4 oz. of glycerine. Use every other day until the hair becomes the required shade, then every two weeks. It will not only darken the gray hair, but removes dandruff and scalp humors, and acts as a tonic to the hair. It is not sticky or greasy, does not rub off and does not color the scalp. You can prepare it at home at very little expense.—(Advt.)

OUR ASTROLOGER

"The stars incline, but do not compel."

HOROSCOPE FOR WEDNESDAY, APRIL 29, 1914.

During today's configuration the planetary influences are light. The astrologers announce that good and ill balance, but they counsel caution if one would travel.

Uranus is in a place held to be unlucky for journeys. The adverse aspect of this planet is believed to increase danger of accident, especially during transportation on cars. Explosions and perils due to electrical appliances are believed to be common while this planet is adverse.

Although Venus and Mars are both well aspected, the sway of Uranus should be sufficient cause for caution in all acts which involve future conditions of life. While the rule encourages romance, danger of attraction toward peculiar persons is to be recognized.

There is a favorable sign for jewelers, lapidaries and dealers in fine works of art.

Upholsterers, weavers and dyers should benefit by the rule of the planets today. Linen drapers, silk merchants, women tailors and milliners also should be lucky while the figure prevail.

Fishermen and hunters are subject to lucky augury, so are soldiers and woodsmen.

It should be an auspicious time for hiring men-servants and for directing gardening operations. The planting of evergreens is supposed to be particularly fortunate today.

Births in New York City and crimes of an unusual character will mark the first week of May, a London seer predicts.

A surprise is prognosticated for royalty in Great Britain. This will not be pleasant, but it will bring about a change in public opinion.

Aerial navigation is subject to a leading of the stars, which presages great advance before next autumn. The death of an American aviator of wealth again is foretold.

Persons whose birthdate it is have an augury of great good fortune for the common year, but they should not travel much or make any changes in their mode of living. The young will take part in romances.

Children born on this day have kindly stars to guide them. Their magnetic center is the sun, in the zodiacal sign of Taurus, and Venus is their principal ruling planet. They should have energy and perseverance. With shrewdness, a characteristic they are like to be able to command, they will be successful through executive ability.

Murder Rumor Draws Crowd of 500 to Watch Search for the "Body"

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

DALTON, Ga., April 28.—The rumor that a man had been killed and his body tossed into the mammoth concrete reservoir of the waterworks system, on top of Mt. Rachel, sent fully 500 people to the mountain yesterday afternoon. The crowd grew bigger when workmen were seen drawing off the water. They were, however, merely engaged in cleaning it out.

The one who perpetrated the gruesome hoax had the satisfaction of seeing fully a half thousand people "bite."

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

If you look for Bumble Bee
Never, never heedless be
Or, like Peter Rabbit, you
May have cause your search to rue.

It seemed to Peter Rabbit that never had he known Bumble Bee to keep out of sight so long when there were plenty of bright-faced flowers. In fact it seemed to Peter as he thought it over that Bumble always had been one of those people who are forever poking in where they are not wanted. Now when he was wanted he couldn't be found. Peter had run his legs almost off among the brightest flowers on the Green Meadows without once seeing Bumble or even hearing his everlasting hum, though two or three times Bumble had just left a group of flowers when Peter arrived.

Quite discouraged he sat down to rest and get his breath. By and by along came the Merry Little Breezes of Old Mother West Wind. They were dancing and skipping in the happy way which is always theirs and when they saw Peter they rushed over to him and rumpled his hair and pulled his whiskers.

"What's the matter with our happy-go-lucky Peter?" they cried.

"Nothing very much, only I want to find Bumble Bee and can't," replied Peter, smiling in spite of himself.

"Can't find Bumble!" cried the Merry Little Breezes. "Where have you looked for him, Peter?"

"I've looked among all the brightest flowers on the Green Meadows," replied Peter, "and although he has visited many of them he hasn't stayed long enough for me to catch up with him."

The Merry Little Breezes laughed. "Oh, Peter Rabbit!" they cried, "haven't you been neighbor to Bumble Bee long enough to know that you should look for him among the sweetest flowers? He loves to visit the brightest flowers, but it is the sweetest flowers he loves most and with whom he stays the longest. If you would catch up with him go hunt for the sweetest flowers, Peter."

So once more Peter started on to hunt for Bumble Bee, and this time instead of going by his eyes as before he went by his nose, for you know he was looking for the sweetest instead of the brightest flowers, but just as before he had to keep his eyes wide open for danger and make sure that Reddy Fox and Old Man Coyote were nowhere about and that Redtail Hawk was not in sight. It was very exciting, but after a little it grew tiresome and Peter was almost tempted to give up hunting for Bumble Bee. But he didn't.

At last as he drew near a little group of flowers he heard something that made him sit up and listen. It was a humming sound. Peter kicked up his heels for joy, for he knew that only one could hum like that and that one was Bumble Bee. Peli-mell he scampered right in among the flowers. Bumble wasn't to be seen. Peter knew that he was deep in the heart of one of the flowers and eagerly he began to look into them and I am afraid he was a little rough with them. Now, of course, what Peter should have done was to sit up and wait for Bumble to come out. But Peter was in too much of a hurry, and so he rushed from flower to flower and at last—well, at last Peter found Bumble. Yes, sir, he found him, and then he wished he hadn't.

You see Bumble is very quick tempered, and when Peter suddenly thrust his wobbly little nose into the flower where Bumble was hard at work extracting honey, Bumble felt that no one had any business there and promptly thrust a little lance into Peter's nose. My how Peter squealed and danced!

"Buz-z-z! Serves you right for poking your nose in where it doesn't belong!" grumbled Bumble as he prepared to fly away.

SAW MEN COMING FROM HOUSE WHERE FIVE DIED

(By Associated Press.)

MOUNT UNION, Pa., April 28.—The authorities of Huntington county today began a search for two unidentified men seen coming from the home of Peter Verner, in which Mrs. Mildred Verner and her four children were burned to death last night. From the condition of the bodies it could not be learned whether the victims had been killed before the house was fired.

Verner thinks the men entered the house to obtain $250 he had there.

WEDDINGS

Locke—Wilson

Miss Avice Locke and Mr. L. A. Wilson, were united in marriage Friday morning at 11:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Locke, near Dublin.

Rev. T. W. Callaway, pastor of the First Baptist church, performed the ceremony.

Ellison—Thomson

LANCASTER, S. C.—The wedding of Miss Corinne Thomson and Mr. Alfred Gaillard Ellison was a beautiful event of Thursday evening, April 23, taking place at the First Baptist church.

Rev. J. H. Thayer performed the ceremony.

The front of the church, covered completely in white, was a bower of spring like beauty. Dainty ferns mounted on pedestals formed the background and in front of the pulpit, on an arbor of white trellis work, a graceful vine of white wisteria climbed most naturally, its dainty blossoms interspersed among the opening leaves of green. Just back of the arbor, also on each side and in the choir alcove, jars of Easter lilies were used, with here and there a spray of the beautiful white wisteria. At the top of the white draped wainscoting at the sides of the church, was a border of ivy leaves. The soft white lights gleaming faintly through shaded globes, throwing a mellow glow over the whole church.

The wedding party and out-of-town guests were entertained at a delightfully informal reception at the handsome home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Thompson. Shade was used in the home decorations, a lovely vine with purple blossoms, forming a delicate tracery for the alcove in the back parlor, where fruit punch was served.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Ellison will be at home in Lancaster.

Chauffeur Held

William Armstrong, a chauffeur, arrested Monday morning by Patrolman Wilbanks for running over a negro named Homer Harris, Sunday afternoon, is being held at the barracks for trial Tuesday morning before Recorder Broyles.

Armstrong says he is a private in the Seventeenth infantry, and runs the machine of Captain H. M. Bankhead. The machine is at the barracks. Armstrong's bond was placed at $50, which he could not raise.

Carpet Tack Lodges in Man's Throat; Grady Physicians Remove It

W. L. Coleman, who lives at 313 West Fifth street, had a narrow escape from death Monday afternoon, when he swallowed a carpet tack. Although he was rushed to Grady hospital and the physicians there quickly performed the delicate operation of removing the tack from his throat Mr. Coleman almost died before the conclusion of the operation. Subsequently, however, he felt scarcely any pain, and is now getting along all right.

Mr. Coleman said that he was nailing up some window curtains and had the tacks in his mouth when he accidentally swallowed one.

LEASE EXPIRES ON U. S. EMBASSY ON JUNE 1

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Should anti-American demonstrations develop as attack on the American embassy in Mexico City, the offenders will be injuring Mexican property and not American. The United States does not own the embassy building in the Mexican capital and its lease runs out June 1, next.

LAST HOUR WITNESS IN GUNMAN CASE ARRESTED

NEW YORK, April 28.—William E. Burwell, one of the witnesses who testified for the gunmen slayers of Herman Rosenthal in their eleventh-hour plea for a new trial, was brought here last night from Derby, Conn. One of the witnesses at the hearing has confessed that his testimony was perjured and is in the Tombs awaiting a hearing before the grand jury. He is said to have told who outlined the testimony given on behalf of the gunmen, and it is District Attorney Whitman's purpose to corroborate the statement, if possible, through questioning Burwell. The prosecutor has reason to believe, it is said, that there was a plot to aid, besides the gunmen, Charles Becker, former police lieutenant, who is to be tried again next month as the instigator of Rosenthal's murder.

THE CHARM OF MOTHERHOOD

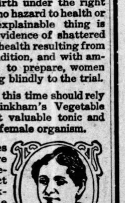
Enhanced By Perfect Physical Health.

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at such times, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when it is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right upon this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under the right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, and with ample time in which to prepare, women will persist in going blindly to the trial.

Every woman at this time should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.



If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

STATE EXAMINER TAKES CHARGE OF ATHENS BANK

Officials of Citizens' Bank and Trust Co. Say Depositors Will Be Paid

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ATHENS, Ga., April 28.—The Citizens' Bank and Trust company is in the hands of the state examiner with a shortage said to be over twenty-seven thousand dollars. W. H. Shelton is the president and R. W. Woods the cashier of the bank.

The directors made the decision last night, when all the bank officers were present, that it was for the best interest of creditors and depositors that its affairs be placed in the hands of state examiners. The president says he did not know of shortage while the cashier says it was in existence when he took the position as cashier. How long this shortage has been in existence and how it occurred the bank examiner will try and determine.

The depositors will be paid in full, officials say. The institution may or may not be operated again.

CHILDREN'S HOME TO BE ESTABLISHED IN ATLANTA

Miss Mattie E. Terry, of Elbanon, N. C., is in Atlanta for the purpose of establishing a local branch of her home for boys and girls.

Miss Terry is making arrangements to found the home on a large plot of ground near the city limits. She has had a wonderful success in this work at Elbanon for some years, but the climate in western North Carolina is too cold at times for the young folks. Wherefore she has chosen Georgia as an indeal spot for a winter home.

Miss Terry is staying at 115 East Cain street.

Unable to Walk For Two Months

Dr. JONES' LINIMENT

Effected a Cure

Mr. John H. Drumheller, 2613 Sartain St., Philadelphia, Pa., says: "For two months I was unable to put on shoes or walk. My feet were so sore. When I tried to take a step the pain was unbearable. My case baffled the doctors, and all the remedies I tried failed to help me. A few applications of Dr. Jones' Liniment gave me relief, and cured me of my affliction after a short treatment."

Dr. Jones' Liniment relieves sore corns, swellings or any affection of the feet. Price 30 cts. per bottle. Trial size 25c.

Mother's Friend Before Baby Arrives

During several weeks of expectancy there is a splendid external embrocation. In our "Mother's Friend" in which thousands of women have the most unbounded confidence. They have used it and know. They tell of its wonderful influence to ease the abdominal muscles and how they avoided those dreaded stretching pains that are so much talked about. This safe external application is gently used over the skin to render it amenable to the natural stretching which it undergoes. The myriad of nerve threads just beneath the skin is thus relieved of unnecessary pain-producing causes and great physical relief is the result as expressed by a host of happy mothers who write from experience.

It is a subject that all women should be familiar with as "Mother's Friend" has been in use many years, and is recommended by grandmothers who in their earlier days learned to rely upon this splendid aid to women.

You can obtain "Mother's Friend" at almost any drug store. Get a bottle to-day and then write for our little book so useful to expectant mothers.

DIANA DILLPICKLES IN "CHES NUTTE SHINES ONCE MORE" A 4-REEL "SCREECHER" FILM

THE SPORTLIGHT
BY GRANTLAND RICE

A BALLADE OF THE GAME.

I wonder when I stand at bay
With shattered lance and shield awry,
Hurled back across the driving fray
With power I may not defy.
If, minus Life's last alibi,
I'll fight on as the stalwart fights?
All unafraid to lose—or die?
Fo, that is all the Scorer writes.

Or when, by some undreamed-of play,
I whirl Fame's banner to the sky
And mount to where the half-gods stay
Among the conquerors on high.
If, turning back without a sigh,
I'll seek some pal who missed the heights—
Though I must sink to hell to try?

Records pass out, and scores decay—
It is not theirs to typify;
Tomorrow brings another day.
Where old flags fall and new ones fly;
But who, without a boasting cry,
Can win—or through life's bitter slights
Can keep clean faith and fearless eye?
For that is all the Scorer writes.

And so we come to one reply,
Which tells the story—pawns or knights—
But one, "There goes a game, square guy,"
For that is all the Scorer writes.

Boosting the clammy athletes is a precarious undertaking. On the day you label him a hero or compare him to Caesar, Alexander or William Shakespeare he proceeds to blow apart in more directions than seven bushers could hope to do with a running start.

Last season just as we were in the fell act of pegging laurel at Tilly Shafer's brow as a shortstop he began to out-boot C. Brickley and had to be shifted to third. And a few days ago when we suggested that Walter Johnson had a fine chance to establish a new record in permitting earned runs he starts that afternoon and gives vent to five.

THE BLIGHT OF EDUCATION.

Congress is now slightly involved in other affairs, but later on it should take up this matter of education. It is cutting into baseball fearfully. Charlie Dooin needs a left hander badly and yet Rixey can't report until June, while McGraw can't call upon Dave Robertson until the same period on account of collegiate work.

A college education is all very well, but should it be allowed to come before the standing of the clubs?

Which reminds us that the old phrase is no more—the old days when it was mostly the standing of the Cubs instead.

TIP TO UNCLE SAM.

Why not capture and annex Mexico for the purpose of establishing training camps for big league clubs? Those 785,000 square miles now running loose ought to be good for something.

On the complexities of the dope this should be the year for Cleveland to run away with the pennant. Heretofore they have started off like a Sysonby, only to finish like a truck horse. Having gotten away at an opposite pace, they should not cause trouble. The Naps are always a high-grade bet in the art of doing exactly what you don't figure they will—or not doing what you figure is a cinch.

Chick Evans embarks this week for England. We hope he doesn't take all four of those putters along he used in turn at Garden City—or if he does that, he will putt with all four at once.

Yet even to the uncertain putter, there are times when they'll sink for you through quite a run. And if Chick can handle his putter effectively the gentleman who beats him is going to play considerable golf—plus the break in luck.

AMATEUR NOTES

Amateur baseball was given a good send-off Saturday, when two of the strongest teams started their 1914 season. The rest of the leagues, with the exception of the Gate City league, will start this next Saturday.

The City, Sunday School, Park Board and Morning Commercial leagues are the ones that have already started their season. The Junior Sunday School, Cosmopolitan and Saturady Afternoon leagues will start Saturday.

Several other leagues could be formed from the various teams that have applied for franchises this year, but grounds are not securable for all that desire to play this summer.

Taken altogether there will be nine leagues playing amateur ball in Atlanta this summer, and with six teams in each league, fifty-four teams will play ball.

The prospects for one of the most successful seasons that amateur ball in Atlanta has ever had are very bright and some high-class ball should be played by the various teams in the city.

Two new features will be tried out by the amateurs this summer, and the leagues that will try these out will be closely watched.

The other is the way the Sunday School league is working a double section league this year. The Baraca league, which is also formed from the different Sunday schools, combined with the Sunda. School league, and they have formed one league with two sections, known as the North and South side sections. At the end of the playing season, the winners of each section will meet in a post season series to determine the winner. This plan has been used by the Grammar league for four years, and has proved a huge success.

Prep League Notes

The beautiful spring weather that has been visiting Atlanta recently has turned the thoughts of the Prep league students towards tennis, and already two schools have arranged a tennis tournament.

At Tech High an entry list has been posted on the bulletin board and a good number of names have been placed on it for the meet, which will be held the third week in May, the exact date having not yet been decided upon.

Boys' High will hold their tournament commencing May 8, and lasting three days, through Saturday. Already twenty boys have handed in their names for the singles, while nine pairs will play doubles. The meet will be held on the Atlanta Athletic club's courts at East Lake.

Peacock-Fleet, Marist college and G. M. A. will likely hold a tournament and a meet is expected to be arranged for the winners of the various tournaments.

Three records—in hammer throw, 220 low hurdles and the 440-yard dash were broken during the meet. More than five hundred people were out to see the meet.

On May 23 at Tech, there will be a state prep track meet held at Grant field. Any prep school in Georgia can enter the meet, and as fifteen have already entered, there is sure to be some lively competition when the meet is held.

Georgia Military college certainly walloped Tech High school Friday afternoon at Ponce de Leon. However, Tech High did not play the class of ball that their team is capable of and they should give a better account of themselves when they go to Milledgeville for the other two games of the series on May 23.

Ouimet Paired With H. Hilton

LONDON, April 28.—The United States will be strongly represented in the 36-hole stroke competition for the golf illustrated gold cup, which will be held at Sunningdale on April 30. There is a magnificent entry list of 125, which includes seven Americans—Messrs. Francis Ouimet, Jerome D. Travers, Fred Herreshoff, A. G. Lockwood, Fraser Hale, Harold Weber and C. W. Inslee.

Other well known players entered for tre competition, which will be one of the greatest ever held among amateurs, include H. H. Hilton, the British amateur champion; Lord Francis Hope, the champion of France, and Ivor Whitton, the Australian champion.

Ouimet has been drawn to play with Hilton and Travers with Herreshoff, Travers is playing a wonderful game just now. In the opinion of Jack White, who won the British open championship in 1904, it will be well nigh impossible for Travers to be beaten in the amateur championship at Sandwich next month.

Holland Claim To Be Settled By Wednesday

The situation with reference to the claim made by the Providence club of the International league on Harry Holland's services has yet to show further development. However, definite action is expected in the matter by tomorrow. Manager Clark Griffith advised President Callaway that he is doing all he can to dispose of this claim, and that he will know definitely just where the matter will end by Wednesday.

Unless the Providence club or the Detroit Tigers has an "ace in the hole" on this deal it does not seem likely that any valid claim can be made. Without a doubt, Manager Griffith secured waivers before attempting to turn Holland back. In that event, he was required to notify Secretary Farrell, of the National association, and he in turn should have sent notice to all the clubs of the majors as well as Class AA leagues. If such notice was given, the Providence club allowed the allotted time for making claim to elapse, and therefore has no recourse at this late date.

Chalmers Will Cut Off Trophy

CINCINNATI, April 28.—Ren Mulford, Jr., of Cincinnati, chairman of the Chalmers trophy commission, has announced the names of the newspaper men who will serve on this commission for the season of 1914.

The Chalmers trophy commission is a jury of newspaper men who annually select the player in both the National and American leagues who has been of most value to his club during the league pennant race, and to the two men selected by this commission, Hugh Chalmers of Detroit presents the Chalmers trophy—which each season consists of two automobiles.

The present season will be the fifth consecutive year during which the Chalmers trophy has been awarded in major league baseball. Chalmers' original offer to the national commission in presenting this trophy, was that he would give automobiles to the most valuable players in the major leagues for five years.

Since this is the last season included in the the acceptance of the trophy by the national commission, 1914 may terminate the trophy commission and the awards.

Defiance Will Be Launched May 11

BATH, Me., April 28.—The sloop Defiance, which is being built here for the "Tri-City Syndicate," as a candidate for the defense of the America's cup, will be launched May 11. Tests of the yacht's parts while she still is in the cradle have proven satisfactory.

ALONG THE WAY
By Innis Brown

If President Kavanaugh and his staff aides, composed of the Southern league schedule committee, would only revise the order of things to come in a baseball way for the next three or four months, allowing the Crackers to tie up with the Turtles all the time, manufacturers of the particular brand of fabric used in the construction of Southern league pennants could take an order at once for a package to be delivered to the local association on or about October 1.

That is, there would be little room for doubt left, provided the general scheme carried out in games between the two teams to date should be prolonged. To date the two crews have met no less than five times, and four times have the Crackers humbled the denizens of Shuttown. Returning home Saturday night after a rather unpleasant experience in Moccasin Bend territory, the Crackers rested up for a day, and then sailed into the lowly Turtles. When the final curtain was dropped on Monday's proceedings, the count showed 5 to 1, with Smith & Co clinging tightly to the heavy end.

A number of causes may be cited wherefore the Crackers outdid the Turtles, among others being the very acceptable hurling of Jack Doescher, and the genuinely clever support given him by a rather patched up battle front. Harry Welchonce is ill in a local sanitarium, while Tommy Long was forced to confine his efforts to a few chosen words of encouragement administered from the coaching lines, since Tom's lacerated finger is still on such a rampage as to prevent more active participation.

But if Tom and Harry were out of the fray a pair of very acceptable substitutes filled their places in Monday's battle. These were none other than "Automobile" George Kircher, and Frank Browning. George hung around off the shores of the left field bleachers, while Frank stood at bay in the center space. No less than four chances were fired into the latter's territory, at least two of which were of a difficult nature. However Francisco gathered them in in faultless fashion. Furthermore he bounded one over Shanley's dome for a single. As for Kircher, he, of course, handled everything that came his way in the field, and, what is more, he landed for two hits out of four trips to the plate.

As may be gleaned from the score, the Crackers won, and won with considerable to spare. However, the path was not a smooth one for the full nine laps. As a matter of fact the going was tough for the first four innings, especially tough, owing to the article of ball that a Mr. Gouliat, hurler-outfielder, was serving. The gent with the peculiar moniker was traveling like an express limited for the first few frames, and the Crackers were not only failing to turn 'em back safely, but they were failing to turn them back at all in many cases.

It looked for a very brief period like business was going to be good from the point for the first five frames. Only two men got on during this time, one through a single, and another by a free pass, and both of these were allowed to die on the sacks by their pals who followed them.

In the fifth, George Kircher singled, but was forced at second a hit later on Lynch's sharp bunt to Gouliat. Red stole and scored on a smash against the sign boards in right for two bags by Ham Reynolds. Ham got around on McConnell's single after Doescher had stirred the breeze. The Turtles began to edge up in the sixth, due to a couple of unfortunate errors by Jennings and Lynch on Stark's roller. Morley fumbled, allowing Dolly to reach first, but then recovered and threw to Lynch in time to catch Allison off third, but Red dropped the ball and Allison sprinted home.

In the seventh, Ham Reynolds rapped out his second double, a scorcher down the right field line. Stark's throw on Doescher's grounder pulled Allison off the bag. Mullen juggled McConnell's grounder and Ham counted. Jennings sacrificed and Eibel drove Doescher and Mac home with a single. The Turtles filled the bags in the eighth with a single and two passes, but Shanley popped up a foul to Reynolds for the third act.

An immense holiday crowd turned out to see the game, and ground rules were necessary. These may possibly have affected the game in a small way, since Eibel's triple might have been good for a home, while Reynolds could doubtless have taken three sacks on his second safe rap. The game this afternoon will be called at 3:30.

Rich Team Spits Double Bill With Kelley

The M. Rich baseball team split a double-header with the Junior team of the Keely Co. Monday. Rich won the first game of the double-header, 11 to 4 and lost the second contest 3 to 1. Holland and Cain formed the battery for Rich, and Owens and Brown for the Keely company.

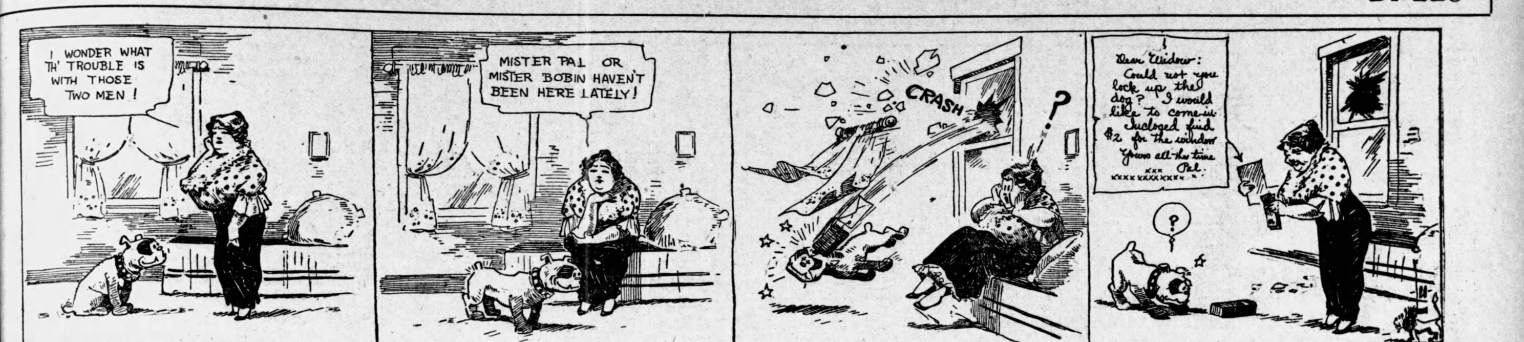
Both Willard and Rodel Confident of Winning Tonight's Battle

LITTLE PAL---HE FINDS A WAY

--BY LEO



Boxers Ready For Big Battle Here Tonight

Both Boer Rodel and Jess Willard Report Fit, and Expect to Win—Opera Stars Will Attend Bout — Good Preliminaries

George "Boer" Rodel, heavyweight champion of South Africa and Australia, meets Jesse Willard, 250-pound cowboy, in a ten-round battle at the Coliseum theater tonight. These two contenders for the heavyweight championship of the world start the first of an elimination contest to find out who really the best man in the world—the winner drawing Gunboat Smith here in May 13.

Never has there been a bout staged in the south that caused as much excitement as this one. Among the most rabid fans who will be at the ringside, occupying the three lower boxes at the right, will be the grand opera stars. There are no bigger boxing fans in the world than Caruso, Scotti and Dinh Gilly. They will be on hand early, Caruso rooting for the Boer and Scotti for Willard.

Willard has been known as one of the greatest heavyweights in the country for two years. He has defeated such good men as Luther McCarty, Arthur Pelkie, Jim Flynn and Dan Daley, while he held Gunboat Smith to a draw.

Rodel has a remarkable record. He started boxing in South Africa. He fought sixty battles over there, never once being held to a draw. In these fifty scraps he won by a knockout forty-four times. Then he went to England and France, fighting Howard Morrow, Joe Jeannette, Sam Langford, Jeff Lanford, Bombardier Wells, Kid Carlson, Bob Scanlan, Petty Officer Curran and Bandsman Rice. He met and defeated every heavyweight in France. Then he came to America to win the world's title.

He was practically pulled off his ship to box Gunboat Smith, and he won the battle easily. Since then Smith has time and again turned down offers to battle the Boer again.

And during his stay in the United States, following the bout with Smith, Rodel has fought Jesse Willard, Dan Daley, Porky Flynn, Soldier Kearns, Fred McCoy, Jack Fitzgerald, Tim Logan and Jack Coffey. Quite some list!

Tonight's bout will be the third that Rodel and Willard have fought. The first was a ten-rounder and Rodel won it by a walk. Then they hooked up again and Willard won a knockout in nine rounds. Rodel arose from a sick bed for that scrap. For eight and a half rounds he stood toe to toe with Willard and practically had the cowboy out when the latter swung a wicked right to the jaw.

"It was the luckiest punch in the world," is the claim of Rodel. "Why, I had that big fellow out on his feet when he brought up a right from the floor. And I will prove it tonight that it was the luckiest wallop ever landed. I intend to go in and outbox Willard for seven or eight rounds and then when he is primed, shoot over the old K. O. punch."

But Willard is just as confident as Rodel of victory. Says he:

"I stopped Rodel in nine rounds once and I will repeat that dose tonight. I have mapped out my plan of battle and it will be nothing more than to go in and sling and sling until I drop him for the count."

Tommy Johnson, manager of Rodel, will be in the Boer's corner tonight. Johnson was one of the greatest handlers in the country fifteen years ago.

Willard's chief adviser will be his manager, Tom Jones, who made Ad Wolgast lightweight champion of the world, and also steered Billy Papke to the middleweight title.

Promoter Castro has arranged a swell card of preliminaries to back up the championship battle. The complete card is:

Jesse Willard vs. "Boer" Rodel, ten rounds.

Battling Kelley vs. Kid York, six rounds.

Young Goodwin vs. Kid Underwood, six rounds.

Billy Hooper vs. Kid Davis, six rounds.

Battling Sheppard vs. Kid Wonder, four rounds.

Joe Castro will referee all the bouts. The ringside seats on the stage have been elevated so that the fan in the third or ninth row will have just as good a view of the ring as the man in the first row.

Tickets are selling fast at Tumlin Bros. stores and The Rex.

Maryland Aggies Defeat Georgia

Derrick Hurls for Maryland and Aggies Easily Win, Score, 8 to 4

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

COLLEGE PARK, Md., April 28.—The University of Georgia team lost to the Maryland Aggies here Monday afternoon 8 to 4. Derrick, who has been playing in the outfield with the Maryland team, was sent to the mound and held the Georgia batters safe all the way. Not a player reached second on him until after the seventh round. In this inning his support weakened and two successive errors by Shipley and Knode followed by a hit by Holden, allowed a run to slip over the pan.

In the eighth the boys from Athens sent three men over the rubber. Torbert and Ginn hit in succession and Clements was passed after one was down. McWhorter struck out, but Henderson doubled to left center, sending three home. Henderson was thrown out trying to stretch his hit to three sacks.

Fox started for the visitors, but was wild and ineffective, and was relieved by Corley in the third. Three bases on balls, two hits, a sacrifice and a wild pitch netted the Aggies three runs in the opener.

A three-base hit followed by an error gave them another in the third. In the sixth a hit, a hit batsman, a base on balls and poor judgment gave the Aggies three more.

The Georgia team left for Lexington, Ky., where they play Washington and Lee on Monday and Tuesday.

Lookouts vs. Vols

CHATTANOOGA, April 28.—The second Nashville-Chattanooga game was called at 3:20 this afternoon with ideal weather prevailed. Batteries for Chattanooga Krob and Street; for Nashville More and Smith.

Gulls vs. Barons

MOBILE, Ala., April 28.—Birmingham determined to get out of the rut of losing games by one score and went after the Mobile club in the third game of the series by sending Gregory to the mound with Tragressor catching. The game began at 3:30 o'clock and Keeley and Schmidt are the Mobile battery.

Pels vs. Billikens

NEW ORLEANS, April 28.—Manager Gilks of the Montgomery team will try to check his team's string of losses with Black, his star left-handed pitcher, in the game with New Orleans today. Kleinow will receive. Evans and Adams were announced as the New Orleans battery. The game was scheduled for 3:30 o'clock and the weather was threaten-

Cairo Wins Fifth Consecutive Game

CAIRO, Ga., April 28.—The local baseball team won its fifth consecutive victory here Monday afternoon, when they defeated the fast Bainbridge team by the score of 5 to 1.

The feature of the game was the pitching of Lang for the locals, allowing but two hits. Toole and Morris formed the battery for Bainbridge and Lang and Singletary for Cairo.

The New Orleans team, under the guidance of Johnny Dobbs, is going strong these days. They grabbed the second game of a series from Montgomery yesterday, 7 to 1.

Miss. Aggies Batter Bryant And Win Game

Four Bases on Balls and Five Hits Net Mississippians 7-Run Lead in the First Inning—Teams Play Second Game Today — Pitts Will Pitch

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

STARKVILLE, Miss., April 28.—The Yellowjackets lost the first of a two-game series to Mississippi A. & M. Monday. Heisman's bunch got in bad in the first inning, when Bryant, their big left-hander, walked four of the A. & M. boys and then allowed them to get to him for five hits which, coupled with an error by Wooten, gave them a safe lead of 7 runs.

This ended the scoring for A. & M., until the fourth inning, when Noble, A. & M. left fielder, drove one of Bryant's benders to deep center for a home run. A. & M. scored their last run in the sixth. Tech scored her only run in the fourth when Newsome drew a base on balls, went to second on Bryant's infield hit, and scored on Wooten's double.

With the exception of the first inning, when Bryant could not locate teh plate, and when he did locate it, was slammed to all parts of the lots, the Jackets played fairly good ball. The two teams play the last game today. Pitts or Eubanks will probably pitch for Tech, and Kinney for Mississippi A. & M.

Second Battle At Ponce Today

With one battle earned at the expense of the husky Goulait and support safely tucked away in their kit, the Crackers go after the Turtles again this afternoon. Manager Smith expects to send Jap Efird to the box to break back any belligerent movement inaugurated by the Memphis, while Finn will entrust to goung Smith the job of holding Cracker batsmen in check.

This is ladies' day, and it is likely that as many of the fair fans will be on hand as attended the holiday game Monday, when they were there in full brigade. Tomorrow will be "Cap Anson day," and the famous old star, who is playing at the Forsyth this week will be on hand to take a part in the ceremonies. This afternoon's game will be called at 3:30 o'clock.

HEAVY REALIZING SALES CAUSED BREAK IN COTTON

Market in New York Closed 11 Points Up to 13 Points Off From Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, April 28.—The cotton market made a steady showing during today's early trading. It was the first May notice day and notices estimated at 40,000 to 50,000 bales were reported in circulation. There was a good demand for May, however, and after opening steady, unchanged to 2 points higher, the market sold 3 to 5 net higher. May contracts led the advance, selling about 6 points over July. Later there were slight reactions under realizing.

May notices continued to circulate up to noon today and prices eased off to a net loss of 12 to 14 points under liquidation. May, however, increased its premium over July and the market ruled steadier in the noon hour with prices about not unchanged to 12 points lower.

In the early afternoon old crops declined 5 to 8 points from the lowest on supporting orders from spot interests. The close was easy at a little steadier on continued unfavorable weather news from the southwest.

COTTON MARKET OPINIONS.

Hayden, Stone & Co.: If two or three weeks' normal weather comes in May there is likely to be more pressure on the new crop positions.

Logan & Bryan: A continuation of this weather is apt to bring forth numerous replants and higher prices for new crop months as a consequence.

Hubbard Bros.: The situation as a whole will be the purchase of the new crops on recession.

Atwood, Violett & Co.: Favorable weather-atic profits on either hand.

Thos. B. Mackinnie, New Orleans, say: Until weather shows up more favorably than today forecasters prefer scalping operations on long side on further depressions.

WEEKLY WEATHER REPORT.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Weekly mean temperatures were from 1 to 10 degrees above normal, except that they were normal or slightly below over eastern Gulf states, Texas, southeastern Alabama, west central Georgia and extreme western Florida. Frost occurred in extreme northern Georgia, the western portions of the cotton belt and Oklahoma, but no material damage therefrom was reported. Except that light showers occurred in North Carolina, there was no precipitation generally over the larger portion of the Atlantic coast region. Over the western portion rains were general, being heavy to excessive in parts of Texas and Oklahoma. More than two inches occurred over the larger portion of Texas, parts of Oklahoma, southwestern Arkansas and central western Louisiana.

HAYWARD & CLARK COTTON LETTER.

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 28.—Liverpool was weaker and steady, awaiting developments on New York with May tenders. Spot sales continue light, with 7,000 bales reported. Port continued good business in Manchester. Weather conditions continue favorable west of the Mississippi river. Heavy general rains fell again overnight and now raining in south Texas. Indications are for continued unsettled and rainy weather over belt with heavier rainfall coming on the central and eastern states, and there is danger of a severe storm in the north central belt. Waco, Tex., wired: "Stands at Austin and Antonio very small, too much rain, planting not completed. Tremendous heavy rains, considerable fields to already replant. Situation very out of hands; still rising."

Manchester cabled: "Continued large business in cloths in India." About 40,000 notices were tendered in New York today. Trade here is confident on the elimination by liquidation of the smaller outside longs with the normal amount of scalp operations after notices. Northern were only partly stopped by spot interests and bear pressure from Wall street, but the expectation there of clearing weather helped to push the decline. Already the elimination of the trailing interests is accomplished, the bull, until actual rains in the central belt of this season is bound to again command the market. Tabular forecasts point to general showers and rainfall in east Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas.

POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

A Few of the Things That the Southern Poultryman Must Do if He Succeeds With Chickens

DURING the past four years the poultry interest of Georgia has practically doubled in actual dollars and cents, and the income from this product now amounts to more than $8,000,000. This looks small, but it means a lot as it is distributed probably among a larger number of people than any other one source of income that our Georgia farmers have. On the other hand it is one of the things that helps a large mass of people. Some things have been learned that have enabled people to be successful with chickens that they did not know of a few years ago. It has made the keeping of chickens a pleasure and profitable now that was a burden and a loss a few years ago.

One thing that the poultry industry more than anything else was that hundreds of people had an idea they could invest a few dollars in poultry and get rich, or that it was easy work. Many have found out differently, and on the other hand many have found out that they could not depend on poultry exclusively for a living with only a few dollars invested. This can not be done in a small way. It takes capital to make money and anyone is very foolish to think they can make money without it. The people who make money from the poultry business are the ones who do this work as a side line and have a surplus of money from their spare time that would not be converted into money if they did not keep chickens. Many of the people who expected to get rich quick have quit, but hundreds of others have found it profitable, are satisfied and contented to make a reasonable amount of money, and keep a few chickens more for their pleasure and benefit than to make money out of. Therefore, many people have fixed themselves with nice, comfortable houses and good fowls and many are getting a nice revenue from their poultry now with a little work and close attention that means a big help to them and their family.

In the first place people have found out that it pays to keep a good thoroughbred variety of fowls, a standard variety that will work the year around and that they can depend on for both eggs and fowls. They have found out that it pays to keep young, vigorous, healthy specimens and get rid of the old, lazy, wormout hens that many heretofore have kept, expecting them to some day lay eggs profitable. People should manage to keep at least one-half pullets every year as they can be depended on for eggs.

Another thing, many people have found out that a few chickens should be hatched every month during at least nine months of the year. This gives a uniform supply of eggs practically the year around. Chickens can be raised in the south nine months of the year if they are kept confined until after the little ones are feathered, and fed a variety of dry feed and plenty of green food, and kept in clean quarters. This one thing is hoped to solve the problem of raising chickens successfully by keeping them up out of the dampness until they have at least feathered. One hen can usually take care of twenty-five chicks easily in a small 3x3-foot coop, and after they are feathered you can count safely on raising every one. Dry feed is undoubtedly the thing to feed your little chicks. The commercial chick feed contains a variety of grain, and when substituted with oatmeal and good sour milk they can start your little chickens and keep them going until they are large enough to eat cracked corn and whole wheat and raise nearly every one of them. Buttermilk mixed with corn meal and wheat bran fed once a day after little chicks are a week old prevents and cures many ailments of little chicks. It helps them to grow and thrive, and gives them a variety.

Sore head and insects have been two of our greatest enemies. But nearly everyone has found out how easily to get rid of old keep down these great drawbacks. By the use of Epson salts and sulphur fed twice a week, disolved in water and fed in soft food one need not fear sore head if this is fed regularly. Dusting with the various good preparations as a dip and the different kinds of insect powders, also just plain land, these things properly used at the right time, enables anyone to keep their premises free of insects which use to swarm the premises, and kill thousands of little chicks. People have found, no let it breed, get a start on them. Therefore, can raise chicks easily now where they could not do so years ago.

Our markets have learned to appreciate a nice, clean, fresh egg and are willing to pay 30 cents to 40 cents per dozen the year around for clean, fresh eggs when they can depend on getting them from some reliable person and know that they are absolutely fresh. Probably one of the largest assets that have been their hearing has been their ability not to have eggs that will not spoil. This has been done by getting rid of the male birds as soon as the breeding season is over. The first of May every male bird should be killed or removed from the premises. You can depend absolutely then on having fresh eggs, and no male should be replaced until the breeding season in October. This has saved thousands of dozens of eggs, has placed confidence in the buyers, and naturally has increased the price.

The high price of meat and other products have enabled people to sell their chickens by the pound and their eggs by the dozen at a staple, profitable price, and our people have found out that they can feed certain varieties of fowls that will lay 250 eggs per year on the same amount of feed that the average scrub would not produce seventy-five eggs on. They have also found out that they can mature a six-pound hen with the same feed that a scrub weighing only three pounds used to consume.

Our people have learned many things about poultry keeping, and it has at last settled to a staple occupation and something that can be depended upon. Another five years will probably see double the interest that is now manifest, and the income of Georgia should be $15,000,000 per year from poultry in less than five years. Poultry keeping, like farming of all kinds, has been revolutionized, but it is still in its infancy. There is yet room for great improvement, which is sure to come.

Yours very truly,

Ginger Berry

WHEN THEY move that fast it's a sign of real merit.

A man came into our office last week and said:

"I HAVE been looking this town over for two years, and have found at last what I have been looking for. We laid out a contract, he picked out our best lot and left the rest to us. The whole transaction did not take ten minutes.

IF YOU ARE LOOKING FOR A REAL HOME, WORTH BUILDING A REAL HOME,

TAKE the Lucile car, get off at the switch, look at the beautiful property on both sides of the street for three blocks. Remember that all the improvements are being put in, at no cost to you; paving, sewer, water, gas and sidewalks. Note how the lots lie, level, shaded, everything around you to make a comfortable home. Remember, then, that the car service is the best in town; every car goes right by both terminals and all the business sections.

THEN try to get something to equal it in quality at our price, $1,350, on easy terms.

The Real Estate Field

Col. J. J. Woodside Sells His Peachtree Road Home at Buckhead to Dr. H. F. Scott, Who Will Make It His Home, Col. Woodside Will Soon Announce Plans for His Edgewood Avenue $100,000 Warehouse—Other Realty Notes

The sale of Colonel John J. Woodside's home on Peachtree road was featured in real estate announcements of Tuesday. The purchaser was Dr. H. F. Scott, who owns a tract adjoining the Woodside property on the south.

No consideration was mentioned in the transaction. The property begins on the east side of the road just beyond Buckhead, the lot having a frontage of 400 feet on Peachtree road, with a depth of 1,000 feet through to the Decatur road, where there is also frontage.

Colonel Woodside built a summer home on the property, and made other extensive improvements on it.

An interesting feature of the announcement is that Dr. Scott will build on his purchase, and make it his home, moving from his present home at Peachtree and Baker streets, which he has occupied for many years, but which is now in the rapidly developing business section of Peachtree street.

SALES PENDING.

Two or three important real estate sales were expected to be closed Tuesday, but have gone over another day. They will probably be announced on Wednesday.

There is a good deal of small trading going on, with a steady increase of inquiries.

VIRGINIA AVENUE SALE.

C. W. Hunter, of the W. E. Worley agency, has sold for W. L. Merck to P. R. Byrd a vacant lot on the south side of Virginia avenue, a block from Highland avenue, for a consideration not named. The lot is 50x190.

EDGEWOOD AVENUE WAREHOUSE.

Colonel Woodside, who, as announced above, has just sold his Peachtree road home, will in two weeks make a definite announcement of his new warehouse plans on Edgewood avenue.

The building will occupy the lot, 50x 100, at the southeast corner of Edgewood avenue and Bell street, where his present warehouse property is.

It will be absolutely of reinforced concrete construction and absolutely fireproof. The plans have not been settled on in detail, but the building will call for an expenditure of $100,000.

Including this job, there is in sight during the next month fully $500,000 worth of new building in jobs of $50,000 up to $200,000. At the rate building is going now, a new record for May will equal if not surpass that of the same month last year, when the total value went in a figure over $700,000.

AUCTION NEXT SATURDAY.

Investors are keenly interested in the result of the auction next Saturday afternoon by Forrest & George Adair of what was formerly the Palmer Brick company's property out Marietta street, but which is now owned by Joseph F. Gatins.

The property is at Exposition street, and has extensive railroad frontage and a sidetrack already laid. It has been cut into lots fronting 75 feet each on the street, with 80 feet in the rear on the railroad.

law requires. They gave promptly some of the most correct and upright men in the city of Atlanta.

Some of these men were promptly seen in an effort to determine whether these men were what they seemed and represented themselves to be.

HAVE MANY VUOCHERS.

The result was in keeping with their claims. Some of the best men in Atlanta vouched for them and we felt justified in presenting their story to the court.

It has come to our ears this evening that both these men now recant and claim they framed up their story.

If these rumors be true, we denounce the perfidy of these men with all the vehemence of our natures.

In this Frank case we have never wanted anything but the truth, have never made use of anything but what was believed to be the truth.

We have believed and now profoundly believe in Frank's innocence, but even that conviction has never induced us to say one word that the whole city of Atlanta could not hear, or to do anything that the whole state of Georgia could not see.

If these rumors are true we will at once cut these perjured witnesses out of this case, just as we have in the past, and just as we will in the future every fact and circumstance that even squints at unfairness or perjury.

In proof that we will not act even credulously and inadvisedly in this matter we send you herewith copies of affidavits of men who vouch for the character of these men.

Frank Again Pleads For a "Square Deal"

To the People of Atlanta: The city of Atlanta has grown in its present greatness and must depend for its future growth upon young men like myself who, reared in other places, but hearing of the greatness of Atlanta, come here to cast their fortunes with its people. When six years ago I left my former home in Brooklyn, where I was raised, to come to Atlanta to help build up a new enterprise that would increase its prosperity and give employment to many people, I accepted the opportunity gladly and came without any foreboding of evil. I supposed that so long as I lived a decent, upright life, and did my duty, that no harm could come to me anywhere. I did not suppose that there was a place in the United States where a man could not get fair play. Suddenly, like a bolt of lightning from a clear sky, this terrible calamity came upon me. I was at work on a Saturday afternoon in my office where I had a right to be, where it was my duty to be, when a young girl was foully murdered in the same building. As to how she was killed or who killed her, I knew no more than a man 10,000 miles away.

I was arrested and put on trial, or rather, what was called a trial. The minds of the people, already infuriated by the brutality of the crime, were driven to madness by the whispered word that I was a pervert and a degenerate of the foulest type. I became an object of detestation and loathing. The whole city, excepting a few faithful friends, turned away from me in disgust and abhorrence. People said, "even if he is not guilty of the murder, he ought to be hung." Under such conditions, it was impossible for me to get a fair trial. As one of the lawyers expressed it, I had as much chance for my life as a canary bird in a basket of cats. No wonder that the judge of the court certified that he feared for my life and the lives of my attorneys should the jury acquit me. No wonder one of the jury was moved to tell a friend that if they had freed me, not one of the jury would have left the court house alive.

And now, here at the last hour, comes up Mr. Newport A. Lanford, head of the detective department, after Mr. Burns has cornered him, and serenely announces that the charge of perversion never entered into the case, that neither the state nor the police department ever claimed or did now claim that I was a pervert, and that the charge was injected into the case by my own lawyers. Evidently, he considers the people of Atlanta an aggregation of asses. But was there ever such effrontery? After using this charge in every way conceivable to railroad me through to the gallows, after the solicitor has made it the other subject of his nine-hour speech, after the supreme court has affirmed the verdict principally on that ground, he now says it did not enter into the case. Not enter into the case! I say it was the whole case.

It is deeply significant that simultaneously with the withdrawal of the charge of perversion against me, Mr. Burns has come into absolute proof through letters written in Conley's own hand that he is a vile degenerate and practiser of unnatural crimes which the law of this state punishes by life imprisonment in its penitentiary. These letters are in his possession and are open to the inspection of any man in Atlanta who wants to look at them. Is it possible that my life of liberty is to weigh nothing? Is it possible that this city has in it so little of the spirit of fair play?

Am I not stating the truth, when I say that the withdrawal by Chief Lanford of the charge against me of perversion puts my case in a new and entirely different light? Is it not a circumstance that should appeal most powerfully to the courts in my application for a new trial? Is there a man in Atlanta who would deny that the charge of perversion was the chief cause of my conviction, or deny that the case, without that charge, would be an entirely different question?

THREE REPORTS ARE DRAWN BY SCHOOL BOOKS COMMISSION

and Mr. Shruptrine wanted less, but they finally agreed to compromise. Then Mr. Shruptrine moved to reconsider, after he and Mr. McCrory had voted aye and Dr. Glenn and Mr. Peyton had voted nay and Chairman Brittain had broken the tie with an affirmative vote.

The wording of the original report was changed as follows by Messrs. Shuptrine, Glenn, Payton and Woofter, and was adopted in that form:

"Third, We would not recommend the publication of our school texts by the Ontario plan." The word "all" before "our school texts," and all the rest of the section were stricken.

Mr. McCrory renewed his fight with more vigor than ever, but it was hopeless. He produced his minority report and submitted it, as follows:

MINORITY REPORT.

"I beg leave to file a minority report, as follows:

"After investigation I find that for a number of years when the school books were adopted under the county system, the prices obtained under that system were much higher than under the system of state adoption.

"I further find that practically as good text books are secured under the statewide adoption for the common schools as those in use before the state adoption.

"I further find from the evidence submitted that it is possible to have printed and distributed to the school children of Georgia school books at prices lower than at present charged.

"I find that we can secure texts for the books hereinafter named by employing experts, or under competition, or upon a royalty basis, as good texts as are now in use in our schools.

"I find that several countries under the system of having some of the texts edited by expert service and having them printed by competitive bids, have produced readers and five other texts at less than one-half what the children of Georgia are now paying.

"I find that sufficient evidence has been submitted to our consideration to authorize us to recommend that the texts of the following books be secured by the state board of education under the direction of our state superintendents, as follows: A civil government, a complete set of copy books, a primary history of the United States, such readers as the board of education may approve.

MEANS TO BE EMPLOYED.

"I find that the texts of these should be obtained by securing expert service, or under competition, or on a royalty basis; that these books should be printed by competitive bids under a contract for at least five years, for printing, binding and distribution of the same, and should be sold to the children of Georgia at actual cost."

Mr. McCrory opposed a resolution by Mr. Shuptrine that copies of the main report be printed at state's expense and furnished to other states as well as to members of the legislature.

"I don't see why we should furnish ammunition in favor of the book trust to these other states," said Mr. McCrory.

The motion was amended to include distribution to Georgia legislators only and to others "on request," and in that form was adopted.

Baby Needs A "Wakefield" Carriage

Mothers know that the disposition and health of the baby is greatly affected by the vehicle in which it spends much of its early life.

They have roomy bodies, comfortably upholstered; springs that make riding smooth; reversible bodies that permit the turning of baby to protect it from the wind or sun.
